STATE SCHOOL FUND TIED UP BY LITIGATION

ATTORNEY GENERAL REFUSES TO FREE PUBLIC MONEY

Lansing, July 16 (P)—With payment of $6,500,000 to the teachers retirement fund and special education programs tied up in court litigation, Attorney General Eugene F. Black refused to permit an "out-of-court" settlement which would have released part of it.

State Treasurer D. Hale Brake and Auditor General Muriel K. Aten refused to approve payment of the money. The legality of its appropriation under the school aid bill is questioned in a suit brought by the Detroit and other boards of education.

Brake said he had obtained agreement of the boards for the release of the part of the appropriation which is needed by July 25 to meet payrolls at the schools for the blind and deaf and in the vocational education program.

Boards File Suits
Black, however, refused declaring, "It is beyond the power or authority of counsel in a pending lawsuit to agree upon the disbursement of public funds."

Aten and Brake stuck to their guns despite an opinion by Attorney General Eugene F. Black that the disbursing officers had no right to take such action.

"Fiscal officers are not statutorily equipped with the duty or power to question the constitutionality of legislation," Black contended. "If the law were otherwise the disbursing officers of a state might whimsically, if temporarily, brake or stop all or part of the wheels of government simply by cutting of the fund fuel by which government necessarily operates."

The Detroit board of education, joined by Grand Rapids and other school boards, has filed suit in Ingham county court asking invalidation of the single state school district set up in the school aid bill.

Hearing July 22
The disputed appropriations were included in the single district as a means of deducting them from total school aid. Balance of the $51,705,633 school aid bill was unaffected by the dispute and the auditor general's office said it had approved the first distribution of $1,500,000 in school aid to 30 districts under the bill.

The school district suit will be heard July 22 before Circuit Judge Louis E. Coash in Lansing. The judge at the same time will consider a state motion for dismissal. The hearing date is three days before the July 25 payday for vocational education workers and employees at the schools for the blind and deaf. Aten and Brake have indicated they will make a final decision on release of the funds following the court action.

Black contended that an earlier opinion that the single school district was constitutional was sufficient legal grounds to protect the state fiscal officers even if the opinion later is reversed by the courts.

Cub Planes To Circle Globe; Solo Speed Hop To Start At Chicago

New York, July 16 (P)—Preparations for three world circling flights—two of them in Cub planes—were being made today, two will start from New York, and the third, an attempt at a solo speed record, from Chicago.

One flight, in a single-engine Cub plane, is to be non-stop. Ted Thompson, 35, of Belle Glade, Fla., wartime ferry pilot, and Hank C. Moody, 33, of Decatur, Ill., former co-holder of the world's flight endurance record, plan to take off from New York about August 15.

Thompson refueling would be accomplished in the air by picking up five-gallon plastic cans of fuel, 100 gallons at a time, with a special device they patented, similar to that used by mail pick-up planes.

Their 20,762 mile route will be via Gander, Newfoundland; Shannon, Eire; Athens, Karachi, Hongkong, the Aleutians, and Alaska, and would take about 10 days.

In Chicago, Capt. William Odum, of the Reynolds Bombshell, who last April piloted the converted A-26 around the world with Milton Reynolds, Chicago pen manufacturer, as navigator, and Tex Sallee as flight engineer, prepared for an August 1 solo flight.

Franklin Lamb, president of the Reynolds Pen Co., said the flight would be an attempt to cut in half Wiley Post's 1933 record of 197 hours. Lamb announced the flight plan routed the plane through Gander, Paris, Cairo, Karachi, Calcutta, Shanghai, Tokyo, Anchorage, Alaska, and back to Chicago.

The second flight planned from New York involved a pair of Cub planes and the two pilots, Cliff Evans, 26, of Washington, D. C., and George W. Truman, 39, of Los Angeles announced a more leisurely schedule for their two little planes of from 30 to 40 days.

They plan to take off next week from New York passing through Greenland, Iceland, the British Isles, Europe, North Africa, India, Burma, China, Japan, the Aleutians, and Alaska. Each plane would carry fuel sufficient for about 24 hours flight, they said. The longest over-water flight faced is the 1,850-mile hop from Japan to the Aleutians.

"The problem confronting us is of prime importance in our national life. We must press forward vigorously toward a solution."

The President withheld any formal recommendation for passage of the pending Missouri Valley Authority bill, thus leaving to the Missouri Valley Authority (MVA) the task of recommending the bill to Congress.

Local City Levies Are Proposed To Solve Money Muddle

East Lansing, July 16 (P)—First goal of the January special session of the legislature should be to authorize cities to levy local excise taxes, Louis H. Schimmel, director of the municipal advisory council, told members of the government workshop at Michigan State college today.

"This was one of the recommendations of the 1944 Michigan tax study advisory committee," Schimmel said. "If the recommendations of that group had been accepted the state and its local units would not now be in a financial muddle."

Schimmel also proposed that the state return to the general property tax as a way out of its tax distress.

"Not only would such a move help the state," he said, "but it also would bring about equalization of assessed valuations throughout the state. Local units would benefit too as pressure developed for 15-mill tax limitation on property."

Panel members with Schimmel were Fred Seal, Grand Rapids attorney, George Bean, Pontiac city manager, and A. J. Phillips, executive secretary of the Michigan Education Association. All were members of the 1944 tax study groups and all were unanimous in declaring their recommendations should have been accepted.

TRUMAN ASKS FOR FUNDS TO CHECK FLOODS

CONGRESS URGED TO START 10-YEAR PROGRAM

Washington, July 16 (P)—A quick start on a 10-year program to check floods in the entire Mississippi basin and put the mighty waters to productive uses was urged today by President Truman in a special message to Congress.

He asked $250,000,000 to get the work started.

Citing the long history of mid-west flood tragedies, the chief executive declared that flood control is a problem of "desperate urgency."

His message emphasized that "this Congress," which has only nine days left before its scheduled July 26 adjournment goal, should undertake the huge long-range task.

Blow To Economy
For many years, he continued, the flood-swollen waters of the Mississippi and its great tributaries—the Missouri, Ohio, Arkansas and Red rivers—have dealt the nation's economy a series of blows, both in lives and property, which "call strongly for the prompt use of more effective counter-measures."

In urging speed to combat what he termed "this continued threat," Mr. Truman said that most of the necessary projects have already been authorized by Congress, but he said the 10-year program should also contain a smaller group of projects which have not yet been authorized. The projects, he said, are now being "planned and investigated."

In broad outline, Mr. Truman proposed a construction program including:

1. A coordinated system of storage reservoirs in the major tributary basins of the Mississippi.
2. Levees, floodwalls and diversion channels to protect cities, towns and farms in the tributary basins.
3. Soil conservation measures further up on the headwater tributaries of each major basin.

"To retard the flow and run-off and reduce the loss of topsoil which is impoverishing our farm lands and clogging our reservoirs and river channels."

Returns On Investment
As a corollary to flood control, Mr. Truman proposed the harnessing of flood waters for productive use which he said will return to the government a large share of the initial investment.

"Fortunately the means available to us for control of floods in many cases furnish the opportunity for use of water for irrigation, navigation, and development of hydro-electric power," he said.

"Multiple-use reservoirs produce these and other benefits, including the improvement of municipal and industrial water supplies, new recreational areas and opportunities for the preservation of fish and wildlife, and the abatement of pollution."

"The problem confronting us is of prime importance in our national life. We must press forward vigorously toward a solution."

The President withheld any formal recommendation for passage of the pending Missouri Valley Authority bill, thus leaving to the Missouri Valley Authority (MVA) the task of recommending the bill to Congress.

Greek Army Wipes Out 300 Guerillas In Full-Scale War

BY L. S. CHAKALES

Athens, July 16 (P)—Supported by planes and heavy gunfire, the Greek army launched a full-scale attack late today on approximately 2,500 guerillas in the hills north of Ioannina, near the Albanian frontier, military sources reported.

Three hundred irregulars were reported wiped out in one engagement. The main guerilla force was believed withdrawing eastward in an attempt to make a junction with other leftists fighting in the Grammos mountain range.

Military sources said the army and strafing planes were in hot pursuit, and that infantrymen were eliminating rear-guard forces left behind to cover the withdrawal.

The attack was launched following a heavy bombardment and strafing.

The guerillas were part of a force which the government said invaded Greece from Albania and attempted to march on Ioannina, capital of Epirus and a strategic city of 20,000 near the Albanian frontier.

Earlier government reports from the fighting front indicated that 4,500 regulars—many of them airborne reinforcements—had closed the jaws of a trap on the guerillas in the vicinity of Mount Grammos, near the village of Nogradhes, where the leftists were halted yesterday.

Sources in government circles said there was a possibility Greece would request American permission to use additional Truman doctrine funds to more than double the size of the Greek army.

The government circles, expressing fear of what they said might be new invasions from the territory of Greece's Communist-dominated neighbors to the north, said that if the general situation grew much worse it might be necessary to request the American mission to sanction an increase in the army from 130,000 to 200,000 or 300,000 men.

Approximately half of $300,000,000 American aid extended to Greece under the Truman doctrine already has been earmarked tentatively for military uses.

PEACE RETURNS TO PINEAPPLES
Strike In Canneries Of Hawaii Ended With Wage Truce

Honolulu, July 16 (P)—Labor peace returned to the fruit-heavy pineapple plantations and empty canneries of Hawaii today under a contract negotiations truce.

The International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union (CIO) last night abruptly called off its five day old strike—marked by some violence and involved legal action—and president Harry Bridges ordered an estimated 12,000 workers to return to their jobs at noon.

The ILWU agreed to send its members back to work pending new sessions around the conference table with representatives of the $65,000,000 annual pineapple industry on a wage dispute.

The ILWU originally demanded a 23½ cent hourly wage increase in the 80-cents an hour base pay for men and 70 cents for women. It came down to a 15-cent increase, however. The industry offered 10 cents.

Gov. Sigler Starts Home From Session In Salt Lake City

Lansing, July 16 (P)—Governor Sigler was scheduled to leave Salt Lake City at the end of the governor's conference today and fly to Wichita, Kans., to spend the night.

The executive office said Sigler will go to Scottsbluff, Neb., Thursday, where he will join Governors Val Peterson of Nebraska and Lester Hunt of Wyoming at the annual Oregon Trail celebration.

From Scottsbluff, the governor planned to go to Gothenburg, Neb., to visit his sister, Mrs. Russell Holmes, before returning to Michigan.

Sigler reported that most of the governors were going directly from Salt Lake City to San Francisco to take part in the Navy-sponsored Pacific cruise.

The governor previously had cancelled plans to join the cruise so he could return to Michigan sooner.

Lansing Pilot Hit Storm For Thrills, Airport Alleges

Onsted, Mich., July 16 (P)—Civil aeronautics officials and state police today investigated a complaint that a 20-year-old student pilot deliberately flew into a storm area in a "thrill" flight that ended in near-disaster.

The pilot, Terrence Collins, of Lansing, escaped with minor injuries after his light plane struck utility wires as it came in for an emergency landing in a hayfield near here. The craft was wrecked.

Arthur Jones, who rented Collins the plane at Reynolds Airport in Jackson, charged that the pilot disregarded flight instructions and deliberately sought the storm area.

HUNTERS FINED
Moorpark, Calif., July 16 (P)—Two hunters, charged with inadvertently starting with tracer bullets a fire that burned more than 1,000 acres of brushland and destroyed 50 buildings, including 18 homes, were fined $25 each today in justice court.

TREATY DRAFT WILL BE TASK OF 11 NATIONS

RUSSIA CHALLENGED TO GIVE UP HER VETO RIGHTS

BY JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Washington, July 16 (P)—The United States challenged Russia and the other great powers today to give up their veto rights in drafting a peace treaty for Japan. It also suggested that a conference to begin work on the treaty be held here or in San Francisco beginning Aug. 19.

The proposal for the conference was announced by the state department. In addition to changing the voting procedure from that followed by the great powers in working on the German, Austrian and European satellite treaties, the American proposal would put original treaty drafting into the hands of 11 nations instead of simply the big powers.

In London, authoritative British sources expressed qualified approval of the U. S. proposal, but proposed that the conference be deferred until after a British empire conference on Japanese problems, scheduled for Aug. 26 in Canberra, Australia.

Soviet Delay Hinted
Diplomatic authorities predicted that France and China would accept the American suggestion.

However, there was considerable uncertainty whether Russia would go along.

The 10 nations to which the United States made the proposal for an early start on the Japanese treaty are Britain, Russia, China, the Philippines, India, Australia, New Zealand, France, the Netherlands and Canada. These and the United States compose the Far Eastern commission.

In the commission each of the "Big Four" of the Far East—America, Britain, China and Russia—has a veto power over decisions.

American opposition to the veto is based on official feeling here that it has been used by Russia in European treaty making to delay progress. It is contended that in drafting a Japanese treaty decisions should be reached by a simple two-thirds vote.

United States Sees Need For More Ruhr Coal For Germany

Washington, July 16 (P)—Secretary of State Marshall today pictured German coal as essential to European recovery and declared the United States is anxious to see Ruhr coal production increased.

To that end, he told a news conference, British and American experts will meet the latter part of next week in conferences here.

In London, authoritative persons indicated the British may ask the United States at this meeting to assume a greater share of the burden of feeding and administering the combined British-American zones in the conquered nations.

The additional cost for the American taxpayers would be between $250,000,000 and $350,000,000 over the next two years if this government agrees to the request, it was estimated.

RED RAID IN RUDAPEST

Budapest, July 16 (P)—About 50 persons shouting Communist slogans attacked a freedom party headquarters last night and beat up 12 adherents of the party leader, Dezso Sulyok. A flying squad of police then arrested all 12 but did not molest any of the attackers.

Venereal Disease Found Mostly In Teen-Agers

Venereal disease in the state of Michigan and the United States has increased alarmingly since 1941, it was revealed at a venereal disease institute held for nurses and persons interested here Tuesday.

Even more alarming, as disclosed by Dr. John J. Cowan, director of venereal disease control for the Michigan Department of Health, is the fact that 75 per cent of the cases of venereal disease are found in teen-agers of 14 to 19 years old.

At present venereal disease in Michigan is detected through local physicians and hospital superintendents who must report all cases where a positive blood test is found.

Rapid Cures

A rapid treatment center is maintained in Ann Arbor to care for venereal disease patients. If a patient refuses treatment the department of health has the power to quarantine him until such time as he is non-infectious. The latter is impossible without adequate treatment.

Clinically speaking gonorrhea is no longer a serious problem. Within several hours the cultural tests for gonorrhea can be rendered negative through the use of penicillin and oil of beeswax. Syphilis requires a longer period, proportionate to the length of time the patient has been afflicted.

Restrictions Of Marriage

Patients who have received the rapid treatment in Ann Arbor are not allowed to marry until they have been under observation for at least one year. If they are considered non-infectious and cured they may then marry. Exception is made when the woman is pregnant.

If a child be born to a patient who has been treated within the year or who has syphilis, six times out of seven the child will be either stillborn or die in the first ten days, or neo-natal period.

Speakers at the venereal disease institute here in addition to Dr. Cowan were Mrs. Mildred Drury, R. N., nursing consultant of the Northern Peninsula office of Michigan Department of Health; William Madden, statistician for the bureau of V. D. control.

The institute was designed to afford nurses of this area, especially those who have contact with parents, first-hand knowledge of reported that one time firemen believed they apparently had the fire under control because flames were extinguished downstairs. But it flared out of control in the upper walls and in the attic. Thousands of persons visited the fire scene during the two days.

the latest developments in the field of epidemiology. During the institute Dr. Cowan revealed to the discussants that only 1/2 of one per cent of the cases of syphilis are accidental. Also, 8 to 12 per cent of the patients in mental hospitals have been afflicted with venereal disease and 12 per cent of the cardiac deaths in the United States are of syphilitic origin.

Since the inception of the rapid treatment center, 7,500 cases have been treated. In time to come, with the help of the community and its doctors and the health department, the number is to be increased. The center cures 85 per cent of the cases referred to it.

Extinguish Last Smoldering Fire In Church Ruin

Escanaba Fire Chief Jerry Jerow late yesterday reported that the last lingering fire in the ruin of St. Ann church, destroyed by fire early Tuesday morning, was believed to be finally extinguished late Wednesday afternoon.

Water continued to be poured on the smoldering ruin all day Wednesday, and three lines were used until noon. In the afternoon additional water was used to extinguish what appeared to be the last fire in the timbers beneath the brick walls.

The collapse of the brick walls on the blazing timbers, together with the covering of the metal roof when it fell into the basement, made it difficult to get at the fire beneath.

Harold Moore of Marquette, fire investigating official of the Michigan State police, was at the fire scene Tuesday and Wednesday.

Moore's duties require that he investigate all large fires in the Upper Peninsula, and his was a routine check of the $100,000 fire that destroyed St. Ann church. He

Dean Stevenson To Speak At JCC Charter Program

Principal speaker at the Escanaba Junior Chamber of Commerce charter presentation banquet to be held at the Sherman hotel Saturday night will be Dean Russell A. Stevenson, of the school of business administration, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor.

Tryg Olson, general chairman of arrangements of the Junior Chamber of Commerce charter night banquet program, said yesterday that about 200 persons are expected to attend. Included will be state JCC officers, local members, and members of the Senior Chamber of Commerce, and wives and friends.

Dean Stevenson graduated from the University of Michigan and has taught at the University of Iowa, University of Cincinnati, University of Minnesota and University of Michigan.

The subject of his address will be "The Community and Business Development." Since 1931 he has directed Employment Stabilization Research Institute financed by the Rockefeller Foundation, Carnegie Corporation and the Spelman Fund. In this work he obtained the cooperation of the entire university in addition to his own school in studying unemployment problems. He was one of six directors of the Albert Lea community project which will assure peace-time jobs for every civilian and soldier in that community.

State President George Fraser of Port Huron, will present the charter; Dwight Snyder, national director from Kalamazoo, will make the presentation of the president's pin; Maurice Mayer, national director of Lansing, will present the scroll to the local secretary; while Dr. Frank W. Henderson will present the founder's plaque to Ernie Skog of the Marquette JCC, who is also a state vice president.

W. R. Dixon, who was one of the organizers of the group and who has served as acting secretary-treasurer of the local JCC group, has been selected to be toastmaster for the evening. Bud Fryal, chairman of the reception committee, has a series of entertainment events planned for the visiting dignitaries, which will include a deep sea fishing expedition on Sunday and which members of the Escanaba JCC will also attend.

Those planning to attend the banquet are asked to make their reservations today with Tommy Quinn, who is ticket chairman, at Tommy's restaurant on Ludington street. Reservations may also be made with other committee members: Dean Konell, at Belle's Coffee shop, or Leo Furo at the Sherman hotel.

Optimistic Outlook?

TWO statements made by business leaders before a joint congressional committee on economics Tuesday undoubtedly will cause some eyebrow-raising in this country.

George Humphrey, Pittsburgh, who heads the world's largest commercial coal company, declared that the new wage contract with the coal miners will do more to stabilize the economy and to retard inflation than settlement of any controversy in the coal industry in several years. This viewpoint is directly contrary to the opinion held by many economists in the nation and is hardly borne out by the wave of price boosts that is developing as a result of the coal settlement.

The other statement made to the congressional committee that is open to challenge was made by Earl Bunting, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, who declared: "Prices are high, as compared to pre-war, but the increase has been less than the rise of wages."

If Bunting was referring to the rise of wages in the coal industry, his statement is correct, but it will certainly be challenged by large segments of the nation's wage earners who have been unable to keep pace with the steadily climbing commodity prices. It is axiomatic that in inflationary periods, prices rise at a more rapid pace than wages.

Bunting declared that during the last four months the price level "has definitely flattened out." It is true that there were rising hopes that we had approached the end of the inflationary period but those hopes all but vanished with the coal settlement and the disturbing price increases in the offing in the two basic industries, coal and steel.

Unfortunately, the little fellow caught in the price squeeze can hardly find the same cause for optimism that was expressed by Mr. Humphrey and Mr. Bunting in their reports to the joint congressional committee. It is significant that industries represented by both of these witnesses are getting ready to push their prices upward.

Need for Fire Appraisal

THE fire that destroyed St. Ann church in Escanaba Tuesday may provide some valuable information that might be used to prevent further fire losses in the community if the city does not pass up the opportunity to make a full inquiry into the fire, with particular emphasis on possible needs.

There is evidence that the St. Ann fire had developed such a start before it was discovered that the fire fighters had small chance at any time to save the building, but a fire of this proportion conceivably might provide considerable information that would be useful to the community in the future. For that reason all of the facts should be secured, compiled and analyzed.

The inquiry need not be confined to the St. Ann fire alone, but properly should include a study of water main conditions throughout the community to locate weaknesses and danger points, if any exist.

Such an inquiry need not be a hunt to fasten responsibility upon anyone for the St. Ann fire loss, but rather a constructive approach to the community's problem of fire defense.

New Policy In Germany

THE new American policy toward Germany, announced in Berlin Tuesday by the U. S. military governor in Germany, Gen. Lucius Clay, is, in reality, not a new policy at all. It is rather a more concise statement of the position that the United States has taken right along in regard to the German situation. Its importance lies mainly in the fact that the United States government opens the way for German participation in the Marshall plan for European recovery.

The United States government has repeatedly taken the viewpoint that any program for European economic recovery that by-passes Germany has small chance for success. Since the United States will have to foot much of the bill under the Marshall plan, it has been apparent for some time that the United States would insist that German economic recovery be included in the European program. One of the requirements of the American program for Germany, however, is that the demilitarization of Germany be completed and on a permanent basis.

Economic recovery in Germany is important to the United States just as it is essential to Europe in general. American taxpayers are now pouring great sums of money into Germany to feed the people and to maintain order. If Germany is assisted in becoming self sufficient, we can end the heavy expense that the German aid program is now burdening the American taxpayers.

The Russian reaction to the American position in Germany presumably will be one of opposition. That is expected because Russia's objectives in Germany are different from ours. Russia seeks to draw Germany into the Soviet orbit as a satellite nation, which is the very thing that we are seeking to prevent.

Tax Bill Doomed

BARRING some unexpected switching of votes, the second attempt by the Republican leadership in Congress to pass a tax reduction bill at this session is doomed to defeat. Although the house has more than the required two-thirds affirmative votes to pass the bill over the presidential veto, the administration forces in the senate apparently can sustain the president's rejection of the bill.

The bill now on the president's desk is identical to the one that he vetoed recently, except that it would put the tax cuts into effect next January 1, instead of July 1 as provided for in the original bill. The president has given assurance that he will act promptly on the bill in a quick veto message so that the final adjournment date, now set at July 26, will not be delayed.

Failure of the senate to override the presidential veto will not necessarily mean that taxpayers will be denied tax relief in 1948. On the contrary, both parties seem certain to push for tax reductions next year, which is a presidential election year. Any tax cuts made after the first of the year presumably will be retroactive to January 1.

FALSE REPORTS (Marquette Mining Journal)

Rumors and false reports spread in lower Michigan about high prices for gasoline and hotel accommodations in the Upper Peninsula have brought the U. P. Development bureau into action in an attempt to repair damage which owners of tourist and resort facilities in this region most certainly do not deserve.

Vacation costs in the Upper Peninsula are not prohibitive, nor are they out of line with those elsewhere.

It is difficult to understand where and how these myths originate, or why, because some of them are so absurd, they would be given credence by visitors. For instance, tourists in the eastern section of the Peninsula said they were told in Detroit gasoline was selling for 77 cents a gallon in the U. P. and that rooms in hotels and cabins in this part of the state could not be obtained for less than $10 or $12 a night. Tourists should realize that any such gouging of summer visitors would soon ruin the Upper Peninsula's tourist and resort business, in which there is an investment of millions of dollars.

Gasoline prices are no different in the U. P. than anywhere else. You pay 24 cents a gallon for standard gas and 26 for high test.

Hotels and cabin rates are not excessive and are not higher than rates charged in Lower Michigan or in the resort areas in Wisconsin and Minnesota. As a matter of fact the average in the U. P. probably is lower. Rates charged this year are somewhat higher than they were in 1946, but increased cost of food and service made some adjustment necessary.

Persons planning a vacation visit to the Upper Peninsula should pay no attention to rumors. They can get correct information on rates and facilities by mail before they start.

You're all wrong—picnic grounds are not stations for wastepaper collections. The railroads are still standing for heavy travel—not to mention a lot of the travelers.

A Texas farmer of 88 says he smokes 20 cigars a day. If he gave them away he could be elected sheriff.

Maybe folks who save money by not taking a vacation figure a roll is better than a loaf.

It's a brainy day on which you buy government bonds for a rainy day.

It's smart to drive slowly through some villages. The officials may be broke.

Take My Word For It . . . Frank Colby

WHAT IS THE ORIGIN?

CHARLETON: Why is England spoken of as JOHN BULL?—D. P. S.
Answer: In 1712, John Arbuthnot, English author and physician, wrote a satirical novel, "The History of John Bull," in which the main character was represented as being the typical Englishman. The name caught the public fancy and it has been used ever since in much the same manner as we use "Uncle Sam."

SALEM: For the benefit of my small daughter, who sometimes misbehaves, I should like to have the origin of the word naughty.—Mrs. H.

Answer: The word comes from the Anglo-Saxon nought, meaning "not a whit; nothing." The original meaning of naughty was "having naught; possessing nothing."

It's hard to believe that, when you tell your daughter she is naughty, you are saying literally that she is a little pauper, but it's true.

The word unobtrusive, I feel sure, will prove to be a super-surprise word to many readers of this column. Recently I asked 20 college graduates to pronounce the word; all but one began the third syllable erroneously with the sound of "s," as: "un-ob-STROO-siv."

But, as any dictionary will attest, there is no such word as "unobtrusive." There is no "s" in the third syllable. There is

Washington.—During the war and for a year and a half afterward responsibility for atomic security was divided, with the army supervising all military personnel and with the Federal Bureau of Investigation acting at the request of the army where civilians were concerned.

Childs

This made-for jealousies which have continued under civilian control by the atomic energy commission. The division was shown in an episode which occurred in October, 1946. A former sailor went to the Baltimore News-Post and offered to sell for $7,000 what he said was a photograph of the atomic bomb. The newspaper promptly telephoned FBI headquarters in Washington, detaining the former sailor on the pretext that his offer was under consideration until FBI agents arrived. This happened while the army still was in control of the atomic project.

FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover commended the News-Post for acting so promptly in a matter so vital to national security. Then came the question whether the former sailor should be prosecuted.

Hoover favored prosecution. He believed an example should be set to deter others. Maj. Gen. Leslie R. Groves, then head of the atomic project, ruled against prosecution, insisting that to show photographs to a jury would further endanger atomic secrecy. He maintained this attitude even though the FBI recovered copies of the supposed photograph of the bomb in three different states.

—IT'S VERY COMPLEX—

The hush-hush attitude, which runs counter to the opinion of scientists familiar with atomic fission, is apparently based on the belief that the average layman looking at a diagram, a photograph or scientific notes could pass on to someone else valuable knowledge about atomic energy. Actually the subject is so enormously complicated that only a very few specialists are equipped to comprehend such data.

The question of prosecution is nevertheless a delicate one. On June 9, Hoover recommended prosecution of the two former army sergeants arrested this past weekend. For four weeks, lawyers of the atomic energy commission and the Department of Justice debated the question. Finally, on July 7, before the New York Sun broke the story of an atomic leak at Oak Ridge which was denied by all authorities concerned with atomic energy. Attorney General Tom C. Clark ordered the men prosecuted.

Here is the vital issue: can we fit control of this overwhelming new power into the framework of our Democratic institutions? That is what the atomic energy commission is seeking to do with the aid of the FBI.

Their task is being made doubly difficult by what appears to be a deliberate campaign to discredit the commission. The objective is to restore control to the army, which would then presumably exercise a dictatorship over the greatest force on earth.

Both in congress and within the commission, the belief is growing that Gen. Groves has encouraged this campaign. At the time that control passed from the army to the civilian commission, every effort was made to pay tribute to Groves for the enormously important work of organization he did on the Manhattan project. But Groves' admirers reflect what may be his own inner conviction that only he can be entrusted with the preservation of the "secret."

Other recent news stories gave prominence to Communism in connection with the atomic energy project. While this occurred while the military was still in control, that fact is not brought out and the casual reader is left with the impression that it happened under the civilian commission.

—GERMAN SCIENTISTS HINDERED—

The real threat to our security lies deeper than the sensational talk of secrets and spies. Our scientific progress depends on perhaps a hundred key men. They are men of genius and intellect, with sensitive minds. They will not—and cannot—be a better word, in view of their temperament and bent—work in a concentration camp with congress and the army sitting outside the door.

The American experts who investigated why Germany had made so little advance in atomic research concluded that one of the chief reasons was the Nazi dictatorship. Despising the mind and men of the mind, the Nazis put their scientists in a gilded cage and said, "now, produce for us."

In Soviet Russia, the cage is even more cushy and padded. Russia's distinguished scientists—and many, particularly of the older generation, have true distinction—are showered with privileges. But still it is a cage.

Our heritage is freedom for all peoples, freedom for the mind. This had made us great. It sometimes seems that there are forces in the American life bent on destroying it.

but one authorized pronunciation. It is: un-ob-TROO-siv.

Phoenix: What is the origin of flying a flag at half-mast?—W. Y.

Answer: The custom survives from the days of the sailing ships. On the death of a captain, a commodore, a king, or a president, ships went into mourning. The entire vessel presented a slovenly appearance—the flag was flown at half-mast, the yards (spars) "cockbilled" (disarranged), the rigging was slackened off, and the rope ends were left trailing. This is comparable to the "sack cloth and ashes" of Biblical times.

THE MOVING PICTURES—As a medium of entertainment the movies are the nation's—probably the world's—best form of escapism through drama, laughter, tears.

Dunathan

That the general movie fare is reportedly deteriorating because Hollywood is making cheaper pictures may or may not be true. For our money we would often rather see an unpretentious bore than a pretentious bore. The production budget of a movie is no indication of the product's quality, as witness the British-made low-cost movies that have been very popular here—if you ever have the opportunity to see them. And in Hollywood Orson Welles has been turned loose on a shoe string to produce Shakespeare's "Macbeth" in 60 days or some such fabulously short time.

What we're getting at is that you can't believe all you read about the movies in the advertisements. The biggest publicity built-up may be only a cloak to cover a multitude of weaknesses.

SYNDICATED SIN—For some reason we have never been able to understand the movies usually advertise their product as if it were the naughtiest thing of the year. Here's the wording of a recent ad of "The Farmer's Daughter." Incidentally, the ad showed a young man and woman reclining in a hayfield. "Girls!—Come See—The Farmer's Daughter. Can Show You How It's Done. She did take a job as housemaid in a bachelor Congressman's home! She did fall in love with him! She did risk scandal with that painter! But what a girl! You'll love her—and her amazing story of her career from cornfield to Capitol!"

What would you think of a movie like that for your family? You'd turn thumbs down, thinking it was sexy trash. But wait—

PURE AND SWEET—We went to see "The Farmer's Daughter" and found that it was clean and sweet, humorous and dramatic, all welded into one of those entertainment pieces that only Hollywood is capable of.

Briefly, it was the story of a girl of Swedish extraction who left the farm to go to the city and became a nurse. A rural advertising sign painter known to her family offers her a ride, gets drunk and fresh and leaves her stranded and penniless after she advances him money to pay for damages to his truck—the rat. To earn money for her nursing course she takes a temporary job as housemaid in the home of a congressman and his mother. Her down to earth honesty and political philosophy bring amusing predicaments that result in her selection by the opposition as a candidate for congress. The painter is hired to smear her with lies about her morals, but with the help of the young congressman and his mother she is vindicated and elected. Curtain.

There is not one scene that is either indecent or immoral. The play is a fresh and breezy romance. Nothing more. It could be successfully staged by the Senior Class in any small town, it is that pure.

DOES NAUGHTINESS PAY?—We were talking with the manager of theaters in a Lower Michigan city the other day and the conversation inevitably switched

INTO THE PAST

Ten Years Ago

Washington—Joseph T. Robinson, indomitable leader of the senate Democrats, died on the fighting line today and left to his colleagues a political situation troubled and portentous.

Marquette, Mich.—Marvin L. Coon, warden of the Marquette branch prison, today revealed that a recent plot of four inmates, all of them hardened criminals, to seize him and deputy William Newcombe in a prison-break attempt was thwarted because of the suspicions of the guards.

Approximately two thirds of the counties of Michigan will be represented when the Michigan association of Registers of Deeds opens its three day convention here this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Sherman hotel.

Up to last night 1,318 service certificates had been issued to Great Lakes' seamen at the Upper Peninsula office at Marquette of the U. S. steamboat inspection service.

Twenty Years Ago

St. Andrews, Scotland—Robert Tyre Jones Jr., of Atlanta, Ga. today did more than win the open golf championship of Great Britain for the second time in two years. He used a record, shattering the score of 285 strokes for 72 holes as a match to fire the enthusiasm of thousands of spectators and would-be spectators.

Rapid City, S. D.—A delegation of women belonging to the National Women's Party came to the summer White House today with a plea for another constitutional amendment for women—proposing greater equality for men and women—and were received "cordially" by President Coolidge.

Thousands of children of Escanaba, Gladstone and vicinity will visit the Morris Castle shows at the fair grounds today, taking advantage of the special barrel-matinee arrangement which gave them the privilege of seeing the show at a greatly reduced price.

to the movies and the problems of the exhibitors.

He was particularly incensed over the publicity build-up Hollywood will give a shoddy or distasteful picture in an effort to put it over. Unfortunately, he said, the two can be combined in one picture, as they were in "The Outlaw." That third-rate horse opera contained immoral scenes and situations highly objectionable to at least two churches and their publicly banned it to their members. This added to the publicity and the picture has been drawing capacity audiences despite bad reviews.

"I refused to run the picture," said that manager. "It would have naked the house for a week but the total effect would have been very bad for my business—and my conscience."

IT DOESN'T—Other movie producers after watching the million-dollar success of "The Outlaw" apparently believe that if a movie does not contain lurid stuff it should be supplied in the advertising. Such was the apparent intention in the case of "The Farmer's Daughter," which we saw.

It is our contention, offered Hollywood for what the movie producers care to accept from it, that they would get just as big if not larger crowds if they advertised their wares honestly.

Hollywood producers in the majority are in a smutty rut so far as their estimation of their clients is concerned.

We don't mean that colossal bores need be advertised as such. That is not to be expected. Nor do we mean that a clean picture need

Q. Will rehabilitation of the British-American zone in Germany be accelerated?

A. Yes. Seventy-five American Liberty ships will be allocated to Germany, for use by German crews, to transport food and raw materials; rations will be increased, especially to laborers and to the aged; restrictions will be removed to enable American businessmen to trade with Germany; and there will be increased Anglo-American shipments of seed, fertilizer and petroleum to help rebuild Germany.

Q. What chief raw materials are used to make cold creams?

A. White, refined beeswax, mineral oil, borax and water. However, vanishing cream contains stearic acid, water, an alkali and glycerine.

Q. What were "Resurrection Men"?

A. Men who stole buried bodies from cemeteries and churchyards and sold them to surgeons for dissection. They also were called "body snatchers." In 1829 several individuals made themselves conspicuous by this traffic and added to it the suffocation of living persons by strangulation. This occurred in England during the early part of the 19th century.

Q. When did the bicycle originate?

A. The idea of man's sitting or standing on a wheeled frame and propelling himself goes back as far as the Ptolemies of Egypt in the early centuries of the Christian era.

Q. Do railroad employees receive retirement credits for the time they were in the armed forces during the recent war?

A. Yes. A former railroad employee is deemed to have earned $160 in each calendar month while he was in the service in addition to the compensation, if any, the railroad may have paid him for such month.

Q. Can you tell me how to remove nail polish from a cotton jumper?

A. Simply place a few drops of banana oil on the stain, then sponge with carbon tetrachloride.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

Washington.—President Truman and his Secretary of State, Gen. George Marshall, have had their first difference on foreign policy. The issue was Palestine.

A short time ago, the president was informed that state department officials were ignoring his statements regarding Jewish homeland, to some extent steering an opposite course from that fixed by the president of the United States.

Members of congress who conferred with the new Undersecretary of State Robert Lovett and even with Marshall himself reported back to the White House that they were told the United States had no policy on Palestine. The United States, they were informed, would have to wait until the general assembly of the United Nations meets in September in order to fix policy.

Meanwhile, President Truman had made a strong statement on Palestine stressing American sympathy for the idea of a Jewish homeland. Despite this, a group of senators calling at the state department were informed that the United States still had no Palestine policy.

As a result, Truman called in General Marshall, informed him that the U. S. very definitely does have a Palestine policy. Statements made by the president of the United States, he said, constitute American foreign policy and are to be followed by the state department.

Secretary Marshall agreed and asked if the president would like to have him make a special statement to the press on Palestine. Truman thought it was too late for this and the matter was dropped. There was no personal row and the two men remain as good friends as ever.

—GENERAL DOESN'T GO TO TRIAL—

Democratic Director Gael Sullivan should take a tip from the army when it comes to charges of drunken driving. Sullivan, driving from Washington, D. C., to his home in Woonsocket, R. I., went off the road. A teetotaler, Sullivan was charged with drunken driving, claimed he went asleep at the wheel. The court compromised with $100 fine, plus $100,000 worth of bad publicity.

In contrast, Brig. Gen. August W. Kissner was arrested for drunken driving in Washington on April 17, but has not yet been brought to trial.

General Kissner, however, had powerful friends. They included his superior, Maj. Gen. Curtis E. Le May, Capt. Mark H. Raspberry of the National Park police and Carlton Skinner, public relations counsel of the Interior Department. These friendships partly derived from the fact that General Kissner had been the flying companion of Secretary of the Interior Krug when the latter took his Trans-Pacific trip last summer.

Following the general's arrest, Captain Raspberry and Mr. Skinner accompanied him to the D. C. Corporation Counsel's Office and pled that the charges be dropped. The Corporation Counsel, however, refused. Instead, he ordered a jury trial for April 18.

That jury trial has never been held. It was first postponed to April 28, then to May 19. Meanwhile, the Army very conveniently transferred General Kissner to Germany.

If the general had been an enlisted man, the story might have been different.

—DEATH OF AN AMBASSADOR—

Final chapter in a paradoxical tragedy took place this week when the body of the late Greek Ambassador, Cimon Diamantopoulos, was flown on President Truman's new plane back to Greece.

Ambassador Diamantopoulos died a few hours after a conference with Secretary of State Byrnes at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York last December. Reports have since circulated that the ambassador was shocked over some of the things his Prime Minister, Constantin Tsaldaris, who participated in the conference, said to Byrnes. However, here is the actual story of what happened.

Premier Tsaldaris had been begging Byrnes to give Greece more territory at the expense of Bulgaria. This Byrnes refused to do, pointing to the territorial mistakes made in the peace treaties of the last war.

Finally, during the last Tsaldaris-Byrnes conference, the Greek Premier looked tired, worn, and so nervous that at one point he broke into tears. Feeling sorry for him, Byrnes gave some practical suggestions on how to present a petition to the Big Four Foreign Ministers, and then turning to the much healthier looking Ambassador Diamantopoulos, he said:

"Get the ambassador here to prepare the papers for you. He is familiar with the situation and can save you a lot of time and work."

The two Greek diplomats left. A few hours later, Ambassador Diamantopoulos, who had appeared to be in the best of health, was dead of heart failure. Premier Tsaldaris, who had then seemed on the verge of a breakdown, is still carrying on as foreign minister of Greece.

An Illinois clubman's wife was granted a divorce. One of these days he'll hear about it.

Very few cracks about the weather thus far could come under the head of dry humor.

In an Ohio city 20 divorces were granted in one week—making the score untied.

More than 50 babies were entered in a baby show in Florida—much to their disgust.

FLU EPIDEMIC SEEN POSSIBLE

Bacteriologist Warns It Could Spread Around World

Philadelphia, (SS.)—A world-wide influenza epidemic like that of 1918-19 may get started at one of the staging areas for international air travel, Dr. Stuart Mudd, professor of bacteriology at the University of Pennsylvania here, warns.

Conditions he saw on his own air travels to Russia last summer are the basis of his warning, appearing in a report in the forthcoming issue of the journal, American Scientist.

He and Mrs. Mudd, he relates, were grounded by bad weather at Shannon and again at Gander. There they found scores of people from every part of Europe and America mingled in common rooms, all breathing the same confined air. As they breathed it, they exchanged microbes that each had harbored in his nose and throat, brought from home or picked up on his travels.

If any of these microbes belonged to a strain capable of causing disease, all the travellers would have been exposed to it.

Within a few days, as they continued on their travels, they would be spreading the disease germs all over Europe and the Americas. The spread would have been so far and so fast that it would be impossible to protect populations by vaccination. Some of the germs might be of a kind against which there is as yet no vaccine.

Ironwood Manager Ousted By Council

Ironwood, Mich.—Ironwood is without a city manager after dismissal of William L. Johnson by a 4-3 vote of the city commission. No mention was made of a successor, nor when one would be appointed.

The motion to dispense with Johnson's services, made by Abe N. Ladin, seconded by Russell Liimakka and supported by A. W. Bulinski and J. B. Chappell, came at the outset of the meeting, before the commission entered discussion of a 14-item docket.

Although widely rumored yesterday and reported in the office for over a month, the move came as a surprise to several of the commissioners and touched off an exchange of words and arguments over the merits and demerits of "star chamber" sessions.

The commission had scarcely completed consideration of several items not entered on the docket, after dispensing with the regular order of business, when Commissioner Ladin made this motion:

"I'd like to offer the motion that the city clerk be instructed to notify the city manager that his services be dispensed with as of today."

It received an immediate second by Liimakka, who later qualified his vote with the statement: "I don't feel we're getting cooperation from the city manager that the different department heads require."

Dissenting votes were cast by Mayor Walter Olson, Edwin Landerud and Walter Wick after a discussion on the matter.

Johnson was manager of the liquor control office in Escanaba several years ago.

BUSINESS MEN TIRED--BABSON

Corporation Officials
Wonder If Worry
Is Worthwhile

BY ROGER W. BABSON

Babson Park, Mass.—Most of the stock market barometers forecast higher prices. This is due to the large amount of money in circulation, abounding credit, good dividends, high farm income, no unemployment and general prosperity. Yet, there is an underlying lack of confidence which makes large investors hesitant.

What Is the Trouble?
The simple fact is that too many businessmen are discouraged and tired. Most of these corporation officials have enough money and do not need to work. They really hold their positions because they want to be of service and thus far have "enjoyed the game." Now they are unfortunately reaching a time when they wonder if their work and worry is worthwhile. As these men are an important factor in the development of business, this discouraged attitude has a serious backfire. Let me tell you why.

Statistics show that 2 per cent of the population of the U. S. is responsible for 90 per cent of the new building, new businesses, new inventions, and enterprise in general. It is hard to make people believe this fact and labor leaders scorn it; but it nevertheless is true. Kill off even 1 per cent of the population—if this 1 per cent were the business drivers of the country—the nation would go into the greatest slump in history.

Taxes and Labor
During the debate on the Tax Bill, President Truman and his friends tried to show that the reduction in dollars which would go to this 2 per cent would be out of proportion to the reduction in dollars which would go to the rest of the population. This is notwithstanding the fact that the upper bracket people would get a tax cut of only 15 per cent compared with a tax cut of 30 per cent which the great mass of taxpayers would receive. Yet, higher bracket people are the ones who have the needed brains, inventive genius, organization ability and "drive" which makes industry tick.

Industrial leaders were therefore much disappointed when the President vetoed the Tax Bill. They furthermore were again disappointed when President Truman vetoed the Labor Bill, even though Congress passed it over his veto. Why? Because when they went to their offices next morning, with new plans to spend money for improvements and extensions, more serious strikes were threatened. Thousands of men even left the coal mines in retaliation of Congress. As coal is vital to all industry, business leaders once more asked themselves—"why bother?"

Free Enterprise
Capitalism, so-called, has many faults. It seems unfair that one boy should be born with a million dollars, while another boy equally worthy should inherit only debts. Monopolies of any kind are wrong; business leaders have abused their power in many ways. The fact that labor organizations have copied the same wrong methods is no excuse for the sins of capital. "Two blacks do not make a white"—nor do two wrongs make a right.

President Truman should, however, honestly explain and recognize that there is a difference in people and that the few natural leaders should be encouraged and not persecuted as at present. The idea that everyone is equal in ability, as first emphasized by the leaders of the French Revolution and as now preached by the New Dealers, Socialists and Communists, is fundamentally unsound and every reader knows it. It may require a great depression to get people once more to think honestly and correctly; unless before then the importance of the "Two Per-cent" is frankly recognized.

What About Vacation?
It is in view of the above that the stock market has reached a stalemate. It goes up a few points and then down a few points, with small volume of transactions. These transactions are mostly by professional speculators sitting in the offices of brokers. The real worthwhile industrialists, mer-

Sam Helps with the Dishwashing

Dropped in at the Abernathy's just the other evening—and there was Sam, out in the kitchen with an apron on, helping his missus wash the supper dishes. (And then I learned later he'd helped cook the supper, too.)

Of course, Sam could have settled into his favorite chair, enjoyed his evening glass of beer, and left all the messy kitchenwork to Dixie. But he kind of likes her company—and she in turn certainly appreciates his help.

In fact, sharing the housework and the mealtime chores is sort of a bond between them ... like sharing that friendly glass of beer together, when the work is done. It's one of those little all-important things in marriage.

From where I sit, the time that a man and wife can spend with each other in this busy world today is all too precious. And the more things they can do together, the better.

YACHT UTOPIA GOING ABROAD

Sturgeon Bay Boatman Plans Nine-Month Cruise

Sturgeon Bay, Wis.—Fred J. Peterson, Sturgeon Bay boat builder, and his crew of seasoned amateur sailors are scheduled to shove off tonight on the schooner Utopia, starting the first leg of a sea voyage that is expected to take them at least nine months.

It will be next April or perhaps even May before they return. The schedule is not too definite, but it will include the North Atlantic to the coasts of Italy and France, the Mediterranean, the African coast, the West Indies and South America.

Among the crew members are Ellsworth Peterson, son of the skipper, and his bride of a few weeks. Dr. G. E. Eck of Lake Mills is the only other Wisconsin representative, although Neil Branson of De Pere will be aboard for the Chicago to Mackinac sailing race.

Others signed up for the voyage are Jeanette Welch of Newton, Mass., and Orr's Island, Maine; Marion Berkley of New York City; Wallace Close of Portland, Ore., and Edward Paulus of Southport, Conn. In Chicago they will be joined by Carl Dreutzer, Arctic explorer. It is possible that one or two more will join the party before hitting the Atlantic.

Will Sail Atlantic
Following the Mackinac race, the Utopia will head down the St. Lawrence-Great Lakes waterway into the Atlantic. The Azores, a little better than midway across the ocean, will be the first scheduled stop. Then the Utopia will slide past Gibraltar into the Mediterranean, stopping at Nice and other points of interest along the southern French coast. Next will be the Italian coast to Capri and Corsica.

The Utopia will sail the Mediterranean as far south as Tunisia, then come back to Gibraltar to head for Morocco and Casablanca on the northwest coast of Africa. The Canary islands, still farther south, will be the next stop, followed by the big jump to Trinidad off the coast of Venezuela, South America, and then to Martinique, Puerto Rico and Jamaica. Through the Panama Canal, the schooner will point down the west coast of South America, touching at Colombia and Ecuador, then aiming for the Galapagos islands. Peterson said the Utopia then would head back to Los Angeles, where he will either sell her or come back through the Panama Canal.

Food Stowed Away
In preparation for the voyage two steers and one hog were butchered, and 75 heavy chickens dressed. Door county cherries and strawberries and other fruit also went into the cold storage locker. In all, over a ton of frozen food has been stowed away.

Each crew member has one outfit of "Sunday" clothes, and the remainder of the wardrobe is such as to create no laundry problem. A portable electric washer is part of the equipment. Each member of the crew is putting up about $1,500 to help cover expenses.

Designed and executed by Peterson at his own boat works here after his war contracts were filled, the Utopia is of unique construction with welded steel below the water line and conventional wood above. Water and gasoline tanks are integrated with the steel part of the hull, conserving space. The 65-foot craft carries 2,500 square feet of working canvas, with which it can attain a speed of ten knots in a strong wind, and

The cabins, trim, and finishing are all of Honduras mahogany, and there are sleeping accommodations for 12. The stainless steel galley is equipped with an electric stove, electric refrigerator, and a built-in bank of glass coffee-makers. (Mid-morning coffee is traditional on the Utopia.)

A third generator has been installed especially for the voyage. This is driven from the propeller shaft while sailing, and operates the deep-freeze, the lights and the new Kirston photoelectric automatic pilot. Other electrically powered features are the water heater, the oil burner, and the ventilation.

PINECREST SANATORIUM UNIQUE IN STATE — The only tuberculosis sanatorium in Michigan owned and operated by a group of counties is Pinecrest at Powers. Built 25 years ago by Delta and Menominee counties, Dickinson and Iron have since become part owners of the institution now largely supported by state funds. There is the possibility that the state may become interested in its ownership. The U. P. branch laboratory of the state health department is located there.

Pinecrest Marks Historic 25-Year Fight Against TB

Pinecrest Sanatorium in Powers, started 25 years ago, has 25 more years of usefulness as an institution for treatment of tuberculosis unless some specific drug is discovered and none is now in sight. Tuberculosis should be conquered in another quarter century; a half century at most, and then Pinecrest will probably be available for other use. Whether the sanatorium, now owned by four U. P. counties and operated with state aid, should pass to state ownership to assure its continued use in the future with limited prospect of TB use is a consideration for the trustees and owner counties.

Several conditions point toward probable eventual state ownership of Pinecrest. The state already pays the major cost of care of the tubercular and is moving gradually toward complete financial responsibility. The public policy of government care of the needy, aged and ill is being expanded. Pinecrest is the largest tubercular sanatorium in the U. P., almost as large as the three others combined. It was built at times when construction costs were low and could be purchased at fraction of the cost of state construction of a similar plant today.

But Pinecrest's present task is the care of tubercular persons, chiefly those from Menominee, Delta, Dickinson and Iron counties, which own the sanatorium. In the 25 years of Pinecrest's service to the public science has made considerable progress in the cure of tuberculosis. A person who gets the disease today, if it is diagnosed early, has a 50 per cent better chance for recovery than those who entered the sanatorium when it opened in 1922. There are better facilities for care of patients, more knowledge about the disease and its cure, and much more effective drug therapy.

Only One Of Kind

Pinecrest Sanatorium was the only joint county tuberculosis sanatorium in the U. P. when it was created in 1922 and it is the only one today. In January of 1919 Menominee and Delta county supervisors met and appointed committees to recommend a site for a TB sanatorium to serve the two counties. There had been lots of spade work leading up to this action by both doctors and laymen, notably by Dr. Edward Sawbridge of Stephenson. Named to the site and option committees were: Menominee county, Dr. Sawbridge, G. A. Blesch and Henry Schwel-lenbach; Delta, Herbert W. Reade, Clarence A. Clark and George Craver. They recommended a 78-acre site in the village of Powers and the boards adopted the recommendation and bought it.

First trustees of the sanatorium were Reade and Clark for Delta and Dr. Sawbridge and Schwel-lenbach for Menominee, with advisory committees from the two counties boards of supervisors composed of: Menominee: Dr. G. W. Earle, E. J. Ellenwood and Dr. D. M. Wilcox; and Delta: C. E. Hawkins, Herbert Bruce and George Harvey.

On June 8, 1922, the trustees appointed Dr. John W. Towey as medical director and superintendent of the sanatorium. Dr. Towey, a native of Stillwater, Minn., graduated from Winona high school in 1908, Northwestern University's medical college in 1914, interned at City hospital, St. Louis and entered general practice in Langdon, N. D. He contacted tuberculosis, entered Springs Sanatorium at Cannon Falls, Minn., in March, 1920, went to Southwestern Minnesota Sanatorium at Worthington in November, 1920, staying for a year. He also visited Saranac Lake, N. Y., and other sanatoria centers. In this period Dr. Towey's role as tubercular patient and post graduate student in tuberculosis treatment intermingled. When he was cured he was a specialist in tuberculosis and in November, 1921, joined the staff of the Michigan State Health Department, Bureau of Tuberculosis, as clinician. In June, 1922, he went to Powers and started assembling a sanatorium staff.

Staff Of 60

The sanatorium, which started with a staff of 15, now has a staff of 60. In 25 years it has treated 2,900 patients, has about 30 deaths a year. The great majority of its patients go home well. It has 2,500 outpatient visits a year, and reads 3,000 X-ray films from the outside besides those taken in the sanatorium. Dr. Towey, first superintendent of the sanatorium, still is in charge and so is Julius Hansen, the engineer and first employee of the institution. Miss Loleta Sanford is office manager, Mrs. Florence Dault is matron, Miss Mary Anderson superintendent of the nurses, Mrs. Virginia Albright rehabilitation director.

The first patient admitted was Alphonse Demell of Hermansville on July 5, 1922. On July 10 Gun-nard Swanson of Daggett was admitted. A few days later Edward Swaboda and August Swanson of Menominee; Charles Vandeweghe of Gladstone and Otto Regner of Menominee were admitted as patients. The first death at the sanatorium was that of Edward Swaboda on Oct. 30, 1922.

Today there are virtually no pay patients. The tendency is for the state to assume greater and greater share of the burden of caring for the tubercular ill and eventually it will likely assume the full charge. When Pinecrest opened a patient had to be a pauper to get state aid. Now TB is recognized as a communicable disease and the public is as much concerned with treatment to prevent infection of others as it is with cure of the patient. At a charge of $4.50 a day for treatment for two or three years not many families could pay for treatment of a family member.

Dickinson Buys In

On July 1, 1927, Dickinson county bought a third share in the sanatorium, paying $90,000, which was divided between Menominee and Delta counties, $45,000 to each. The legal name of the sanatorium was "The Joint County Sanatorium Owned and Operated by the Counties of Delta, Dickinson and Menominee" but a contest was held among school children and the name Hiawatha Sanatorium was adopted. Before it was announced as the winning name, however, the trustees changed their minds and the name Pinecrest was adopted, although it was learned later that there was already a Pinecrest sanatorium in lower Michigan. The two institutions have had their mail mixed ever since.

In 1928 the engineer's residence was converted into a home for help and a six car garage was constructed. That year Major Henry Schwel-lenbach died and G. A. Blesch of Menominee was named a trustee to succeed him and Sol Beauparlant of Iron Mountain was named secretary of the Sanatorium board of trustees. In that year Dr. Towey got his first medical assistant, Dr. Kimball Parish of Hermansville, who gave part time to the sanatorium and part to private practice. Current assistant superintendent is Dr. Edward Clark, formerly of the U. S. Army, the U. S. Public Health Service and the Bureau of Tuberculosis Control at Lansing. In 1928 200 patients were admitted.

Iron County Joins

On May 3, 1937 Iron county bought a fourth interest in the sanatorium for $78,000. Attempt to get a Public Works administration grant for construction of an addition at Pinecrest was unsuccessful, but in 1936 a Works Progress administration project constructed a 75-bed addition to the sanatorium, a sewage disposal plant, boiler house enlargement, third story addition to the nurses' home, a superintendent's residence and two car garage at a total cost of $456,639.72, of which WPA gave $299,200.53 and the four counties sponsoring the sanatorium $157,439.19.

The new addition provided adequate surgical facilities, kitchens, dining rooms, and other facilities that the sanatorium had lacked and it remodeled rooms in the old building for use of a Michigan State Health Department Laboratory. The sanatorium pasteurizes its own milk supply, purchased from Johnson Brothers Dairy at Canard. It has freon gas refrigeration equipment and does all its cooking by electricity.

Should the state eventually acquire Pinecrest it would get a modern 145-bed hospital whose bed capacity could easily be increased 50 by closing in porches and making other minor alterations. Pinecrest's plant is appraised by the American Appraisal company at a value of $1,000,000. Pinecrest is probably the only TB sanatorium in the U. P. that might be desirable to the state. It has 145 beds, the combined capacity of the sanatoria at Ironwood, Houghton and Marquette is only about 160. Marquette tried without success last year to give its sanatorium to the state. Pinecrest has been operating at a deficit, but its administrators would probably be loath to sell it unless they considered the long range welfare of the institution and were concerned about its perpetuation.

When tuberculosis is no longer a public concern the sanatorium might be used for arthritics, heart patients, insane, or infirm or other public charges a quarter century or half century to come. The buildings at Pinecrest are good for 100 years or more and there is hopeful prospect that they will not be needed nearly that long for the care of tubercular persons.

Patient Load

Pinecrest in its first full year of operation, 1923, had 19,154 patient days. The load has increased since:

1925	— 23,239	1940	— 46,625
1930	— 31,018	1945	— 44,835
1935	— 32,635	1946	— 44,816

Average number of patient days, 1922 to 1947, 35,676 per year. Total number of patient days 891,902.

Total expenditures on sanatorium by counties from 1922 (Dickinson from 1926, Iron from 1936):

Delta	.....	$353,886.38
Menominee	.....	$346,947.38
Dickinson	.....	$245,910.00
Iron	.....	$146,985.45

Present trustees: Delta, A. J. Young, James T. Jones; Dickinson: Sol Beauparlant, Dr. W. Fiedling; Iron: V. D. Laing, J. V. Soderman; Menominee: Dr. Edward Sawbridge, Ralph W. Wells.

Sanatorium treatment can do most for the tubercular ill when the disease is diagnosed early. Education and increased X-ray examination resulted in earlier treatment, but the sanatorium still gets patients in advanced condition.

The drug streptomycin, in use since January, 1947, is still experimental, but it offers more hope of cure than any other drug used previously in tuberculosis. It is not a specific for TB, but it turns the trick in a lot of hopeless cases. A major drawback to its use is its cost: $4 a gram, with treatment requiring use of a gram a day for 120 days or a total cost of $480.

Upper Peninsula Railway Service Given Criticism

Marquette, Mich.—Rail service between this community and Chicago and lower Michigan points is inadequate and inconvenient, 13 Marquette municipal officials and businessmen told a state public service commission hearing here Tuesday.

The hearing, however, appeared to develop only a general idea about conditions and left Commissioner S. L. Marshall St. Johns, who presided, far from satisfied. "We have heard largely repetitious testimony," he said.

Witnesses said that passenger service facilities in this territory were unsatisfactory in that trains are delayed, coaches are drafty, dirty, and uncomfortable, there is no through sleeper service, schedules are not arranged with a view to needs and convenience of the public and connections are inadequate.

Hearings will be conducted in Houghton Thursday.

Radio In Review

By John Crosby

Holidays and Mr. Eddy
I was lying on the lawn the other day dreaming of a white Christmas when the thought struck that Irving Berlin had not only appropriated that holiday but had also to great measure rearranged its significance. Christmas is above all else a religious holiday, but a small child exposed to the radio around Christmas time might very easily get the impression that the prime reason for Christmas is snow and sleighbells and Bing Crosby. In all innocence, Mr. Berlin has also redefined Easter; the emphasis is now placed on the bonnet rather than the herald angels.

This re-association of the significance of holidays is not by any means confined to Mr. Berlin. The late George M. Cohan has now been awarded the Fourth of July as his very own. Since Mr. Cohan celebrated his birthday on the Fourth and since he was one of the noisiest of patriots, it's mildly appropriate that his songs fill the air on the Fourth, and during this last Independence Day they certainly did. But the song which led all the rest, it seems to me, was not "Yankee Doodle Dandy" or "It's a Grand Old Flag," it was "Give My Regards to Broadway," which has little if anything to do with the founding of this country. "Give My Regards to Old Broadway."

"And say that I will soon be there," thundered forth on scores of programs.

Already an impressionable child of my acquaintance has got the idea that the nation celebrates the Fourth because George M. Cohan, or, as he is frequently known, Yankee Doodle Dandy, made his triumphal return from England on that day. This child has the words to heart and no amount of nonsense in the history books is going to change his mind. Just lay off Thanksgiving lads. It's about all we have left.

While on the subject of association, I'd like to bring up Ken Carpenter. I've never met Mr. Carpenter but I have my own ideas about his personality. He is, I'm sure, delicious, full-bodied and spreads easily on white or rye. He has that tangy smoothness, you know, and be sure and look for the word Kraft on the yellow label. Carpenter has been associated with Kraft for so long that he always appears, to me at least, to be selling cheese, even when he's selling something else. It's confusing both to me and to the grocer when I ask for Philco cheese, and I'm sure the Philco people wouldn't approve.

The other association I have lying around is Nelson Eddy and his coonskin cap. In my mind's eye, Eddy always has a coonskin cap, and usually he's in a canoe. I've tried to put him on dry land in a top hat or even a snap brim but he won't go. He's cursed with that coonskin for the rest of his days or anyway for the rest of mine. You will find both Carpenter and Eddy on the new Kraft summer show where Duchin used to be (N. B. C. 9:00 p. m. E. D. T. Thursdays).

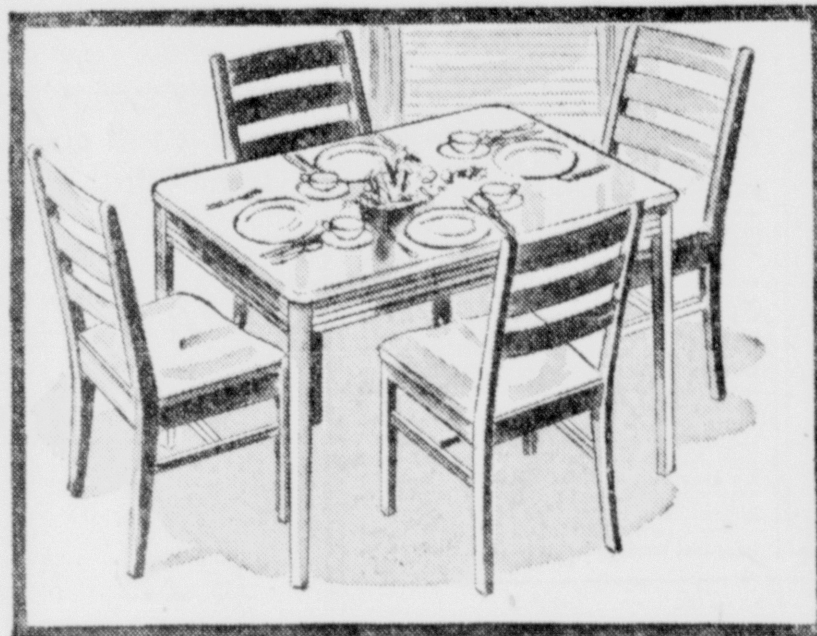

The air during this half hour is filled with such items as "Naughty Marietta," "Strike Up the Band" and Rudolph Friml. Eddy likes to open his mouth and really let go and this program is designed to give him scope. It's a good rousing musical show with a chorus and orchestra in addition to Mr. Eddy and on clear days you can hear it for blocks. Frankly, I can take Eddy or leave him alone, which marks me off as considerably more versatile than many of my friends who have no alternative in this matter. Whatever your feelings about Eddy, you'll have to admit that he is one of the few popular singers whose mating cries sound decently virile. Out here in Bucks County you have to keep him tuned low or the living room fills with moos.

Traffic At Straits Up 18.2% Above '46

Lansing — The state highway department reports traffic on the state's trunkline system over the three-day Fourth of July holiday ran approximately 15-percent above the same period of 1946. Final reports from the department's traffic count stations located at various points throughout the state showed the heaviest increases in the north part of the lower peninsula and the Thumb area of the eastern shoreline. In the central part of the lower peninsula traffic was up 24 per cent over 1946 while the west shoreline along Lake Michigan showed an increase of 26 percent. The department said traffic in the Detroit area climbed some 6.5 percent over last year, but stated this was due to motorists leaving the city for vacation areas.

Traffic during the weekend holiday at the highway ferry system at the Straits of Mackinac showed an 18.2 percent increase over the same three day period of 1946. Highway Commissioner Ziegler said 18,552 vehicles and 36,807 passengers were carried across the Straits from July 3 to July 6 inclusive while during the same period of 1946, 15,692 vehicles and 32,083 passengers made the crossing. During the first 6 months of 1947 state highway car ferries at the Straits carried 110,322 vehicles, or 9,610 over the same period of 1946, a gain of 9.5 percent.

Large Section Of Painted Cove Slides Into Lake Superior

Munising—"And this too shall pass away" was emphatically pointed out Sunday when approximately 40 tons of rock from the bottom of the last point at Painted Cove along Pictured Rocks slid into Lake Superior in a dozen pieces.

Everett Morrison, local sight-seeing boat operator, said he and a party of 10 persons in his boat were making the noon trip along Pictured Rocks when they heard a big splash. Because, at times, the waves make a great deal of noise slapping against the rocks, Morrison said, he thought nothing of the splash sound. However, he reported, a short time later, Dave Hendrickson, his helper on the boat, called out to the party to look at the rocks and the change in the formation at Painted Cove.

Observers of the cave-in said that a large section of the rock had slid into the lake, breaking into about a dozen pieces which could be seen jutting out of the water.

The last time any of the Pictured Rocks are known to have caved in was about seven or eight years ago, L. J. Merwin, secretary of the Munising Chamber of Commerce, reported.

Visitors Arrive By Amphibious Sea-Bee

Munising—Paul Foreman of Hastings, Mich., and Meynard Monahan of Grand Ledge, arrived in Munising yesterday afternoon via a 4-passenger, amphibious, Republic built Sea-Bee enroute to their lodge on Nevins Lake. The plane, piloted by a former U. S. Air Force flier, "Woody" Bachelder, made the 270-mile trip from Hastings, Mich., in two hours and 45 minutes. Cruising speed of the craft, Woody said, is about 105 miles per hour. ## RC Blood Donation Program Scheduled For August 11-15

The people of Escanaba will have a double opportunity to help themselves when August 11 comes.

Firstly, they will be able to learn what type of blood they have and whether it is Rh positive or negative. Secondly, they can assure themselves and relatives and friends of having blood or plasma in case of serious illness or injury.

The way to do this is to see the Delta County Chapter secretary for the American Red Cross program. Registration to donate blood can be made at any time during their office hours.

According to the field representative (here now to help formulate administrative details) at least 400 persons are needed to donate blood for the bank.

Sponsored by the Michigan department of health and the American Red Cross the program is, specifically, to provide communities with the vitally needed blood and plasma, which can mean the difference of life or death in many cases.

The blood program in Escanaba will be inaugurated at the Junior high school, August 11, and will continue through August 15. A staff of state personnel will handle the specific program activity while the canteen and other details will be in charge of designated persons.

Mrs. C. R. Riegel is supervisor of the program and will be assisted by various citizens of Escanaba.

The help of all organizations in the city is requested for the blood program.

RAILWAYS PUT OVER FAST ONE

Reed-Bulwinkle Measure Will Give Them Much Power

BY PETER EDSON NEA Washington Correspondent Washington, (NEA)—American railroads are about to get one of the fastest, biggest trainloads of power in their history.

It will be made legal if Congress passes the so-called Reed-Bulwinkle bill which would give the railroad almost absolute authority to enter into combinations to fix their own rates, determine what part of the rate each carrier shall receive, what time the trains run, over what routes they operate, what claims they pay, what equipment shall be built and how it shall be used—practically free from any government regulation in the public interest.

Instead of having to ask the Interstate Commerce Commission for approval of the billion-dollar-a-year rate increase, the railroads are seeking, they would simply have to file notice of what their proposed new rates are. If the I. C. C. did not find within 60 days that the proposed schedules were not in conformity with transportation policy as set forth in the Interstate Commerce Act, the rates would go into effect automatically and there would be little that the government could do to change the situation.

All this would be done under an innocent-looking amendment to the Interstate Commerce Act. It was sponsored originally two years ago by Democratic Congressman Alfred L. Bulwinkle of North Carolina. This year Republican Senator Clyde Reed of Kansas took it up. It has passed the Senate, 60 to 27. It passed the Democratic House last year 277 to 45 and will probably go B-lining through this year's Republican House by an even bigger majority.

The only possibility of flagging this legislative express lies with Father Time himself. Congress is trying to make adjournment on schedule July 26. The House Interstate Commerce Committee is still concluding hearings on the Reed-Bulwinkle bill. The House can't vote on the measure until testimony of these hearings is printed. That may take a week. There may be a delay of a few days while other bills on the crowded calendar are handled.

If Congress doesn't complete action before July 17, the President can kill the bill by a pocket veto—refusing to sign it before Congress adjourns. That's the only chance.

The railroads have put this bill over on Congress with one of the most high-pressure lobbying campaigns ever seen in Washington. This lobbying was not done by railroad employees directly. It was done by bringing to Washington important people from congressmen's home towns. These people had been thoroughly sold on the railroads' desire for passage of the Reed-Bulwinkle bill.

In addition the railroads had nearly 1000 local Chambers of Commerce, business organizations, shippers' organizations and even state and local government officials file petitions with Congress, favoring the Reed-Bulwinkle bill.

Power Limited Yet if the Reed-Bulwinkle bill becomes law, the power of the attorney-general to take action against the railroads would be limited to appearing before the I. C. C. and protesting against any of the articles of association or agreements on rates and services filed by the railroads, there would be no penalty provisions and no damages. For the most part, the bill would be a mere ratification of the public interest, the carriers would get off scot-free. The only requirement would be that they amend the articles of agreement.

Railway executives have claimed that, in being required to submit their basic inter-carrier agreements to the I. C. C., they are submitting to government regulation. The fallacy of that argument is that the last thing the railroads were willing to submit to government regulation, they would accept it under the anti-trust laws now in force. This they do not accept. When they accept that, they'll be ready to accept government ownership. That will be never.

VITAMINS MAKE FUR CHEAPER

Fox And Mink Coats To Be Abundant And Perhaps Cheaper

(AP) Newsfeatures Madison, Wis.—Vitamins for foxes and mink may make fur coats more abundant, and possibly cheaper.

University of Wisconsin scientists found that two vitamins help control some diseases taking heavy toll of the fur animals. More animals should mean more coats at lower cost.

The tests by A. E. Schaefer, C. K. Whitehair, and C. A. Elvehjem showed that folic acid, a B-complex vitamin, will cure most of the symptoms in nutritional anemia and gastro-enteritis in mink and foxes.

An even newer vitamin, the so-called "monkey anti-anemia factor" discovered at Wisconsin last year, also is needed by the animals, they said. Liver supplies both vitamins, but cheaper methods of administering them are being sought.

The laboratories also are studying two problems in dogs, and fish.

Canine hysteria, or "running fits" in dogs, often shows up on rations containing large amounts of wheat products. Gordon Newell and Dr. Elvehjem found that dogs consistently got the disease within a few days on purified food containing 10 to 15 per cent wheat gluten. There appears to be something toxic to them in the wheat gluten, they said.

They fed dogs food containing 80 per cent whole wheat for eight weeks. The dogs didn't get hysteria. This amount of whole wheat doesn't contain as much gluten as brought on hysteria in a few days, but it has enough so that it was expected to affect the dogs over a long period of time. The experiment indicates, they said, that whole wheat contains something which protects dogs against the toxic stuff in the gluten part of wheat.

Exactly what kind of diet fish need is being investigated by Barbara McLaren, Elmer Herman, and Dr. Elvehjem. This never had been done before. Using purified rations, they found that fish cannot tolerate much carbohydrate, but apparently consume large proportions of protein, salt, fat, and a horny substance called chitin.

They devised diets on which fingerling trout—for stocking purposes—showed excellent growth over four-month periods. One uses skimmilk powder, liver A compound, fat, gelatin, soybean, oilmeal, alfalfa leaf meal, and small amounts of cod liver oil and salt.

Isle Royale Park Gets Service Boat

Hancock, Mich.—A new service-boat for Isle Royale National Park arrived in Houghton yesterday afternoon under the command of Captain Russell Grenleaf, with George White, chief engineer. The boat, named the Ranger, which will be decommissioned as far as the National Park Service is concerned.

The new boat was built for the U. S. Army for coastal freight and supply service during the war, and while it saw lots of service during the war years, is in excellent condition, excepting that it needs a dressing up with paint.

Built on lines similar to the U. S. Coast Guard Cutter Woodrush, which has been coming here in recent years, it is 114 feet long and has a 27 foot beam. It is powered with twin 230 horsepower diesel engines with twin screws.

The boat is equipped with a marine direction finder, radio telephone, public address system, radar and electric steering gear, and a large cargo boom on the forward deck.

FEDERAL FOOD BUYING CURBED

Procurement Program Eased Up To Lessen Price Pressure

BY OVID A. MARTIN Washington, July 16 (AP)—The government eased up today on some of its food procurement program for shortage areas abroad to lessen pressure on domestic prices.

It withdrew temporarily from the wheat market and announced that meat exports during the July-September quarter will be reduced about 89 per cent from the previous quarter.

It announced also that it will stop buying eggs July 23 for the purpose of supporting producer prices.

Agriculture department officials said these actions should not be interpreted, however, as indicating a change of policy of sharing this country's supplies with shortage areas to prevent hunger.

They said the decision to stop, for the time being, the purchase of wheat was prompted by the fact that grain prices have advanced rather sharply during the last few days.

They hope that an official forecast on corn to be released by the agriculture department next Tuesday will show considerable improvement in corn prospects and a downturn in price for both corn and wheat.

In that event, the government, would re-enter the wheat market. But whether prices go up or down, the government still plans to export about as much grain from this year's crop as it sent abroad from last year's. Secretary of Agriculture Anderson, at a news conference Monday, made this point.

Foreign shortage areas have asked for a third more grain for the year ahead than world export supplies will permit. Any reduction in American exports below last year's level would result, officials said, in undue suffering and starvation abroad.

The government's action in cutting meat export allocations from 155,000 pounds for the second quarter to 16,876,000 for the third quarter was not surprising.

Few foreign countries have sufficient dollars to buy meat at prices now prevailing in this country. They did not take all that was allocated them in the second quarter.

The discontinuance of government buying of eggs has no connection with the foreign foods program.

Past purchases of eggs were made largely for the purpose of carrying out legal requirements that producer prices be supported at not less than 90 per cent of parity. Only about one third of the eggs bought this year have moved abroad. The government still holds the remainder. As in the case of meat, few foreign areas have dollars to spend for eggs at American prices.

The two men were coming from Escanaba at the time.

The auto, owned by William L. Marble, city, was considerably damaged.

City police investigated the accident.

As an outgrowth, Webster appeared before Justice of Peace O. C. Estenson yesterday morning and upon his plea of guilty to a reckless driving charge was fined $25 and assessed costs of prosecution amounting to $3.15.

Truck Overturns,
Lands In Creek But
Driver Is Unharmd

Joe DeCramer of Perkins lost control of his truck after it hit a guard rail as he crossed the Inman Creek east of Perkins Monday night and the truck rolled down the embankment into the creek.

DeCramer was uninjured. Damage to the truck was light. The driver told Michigan State Police who investigated the accident that he was blinded by the lights of an auto he was meeting. DeCramer was heading westward toward Perkins from US-41.

Mrs. William Gaden of Manitoba, Canada, sustained a shoulder injury when an auto driven by her husband, William, in which she was a passenger, was struck by a car driven by John Hult, Route 1, Gladstone, at the intersection of M-35 and US-2 and 41, late Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Gaden's injury was treated at the office of a local physician.

The accident was investigated by city police.

We can Clean Up Our Rivers

Science Points the Way for Progressive Communities to Cooperate With Industry In Solving Problems of Water Pollution

Steel industry, never a dominant factor in stream pollution, conducts continuous research to solve waste disposal problem.

By JOHN D. GREENE

WHEN the Red Man of early American days was thirsty, he knelt beside a shimmering stream, cupped his hands, and drank the water. When he felt the urge to travel, he built canoes to carry him along the major rivers and their thousands of tributaries.

He speared the fish for food. Along the banks he trapped fur-bearing animals. Virgin forests, towering majestically above his settlements, protected the slopes of the valleys and tempered both the floods of early spring and the droughts of mid-summer.

But this is the year 1947. Well over 300 years have passed since the white man arrived to stay, bringing with him a highly organized society. The rivers and streams of America now flow past populous towns and cities, mammoth industrial plants and busy wharves.

Today our waterways must carry burdens that did not exist when small and scattered Indian villages dotted their shores. Pollution has become a dangerous threat to one of our greatest natural assets. Not all of our rivers are seriously polluted as yet, but it is impossible to extend a clean bill of health to many which flow past the country's major centers of population.

Streams carry away the surplus products of natural processes, such as the precipitation of rain and melting of ice and snows. They serve as conduits for an infinite variety of other substances, organic and inorganic, mineral, animal and vegetable, clean and unclean.

So long as its capacity is not exceeded, a stream can purify itself with amazing efficiency. It is a natural biological and chemical treatment plant. Unfortunately, there is a limit to the self-purification capacity of any given gallonage of water. When this limit is exceeded, organic wastes putrefy. The stream becomes septic. Even the fish die.

DAY after day, some six billion gallons of sewage are pumped into the country's fresh water rivers, streams and lakes. Forty percent of it is released without any treatment to reduce its offensiveness or toxicity. Little regard is shown for downstream communities, many of which must somehow purify part of the flow for drinking water.

Let's consider a wholly imaginary river. On it there are just four communities: Arboton, near the source; Benville, 10 miles down; Crownsburg, 12 miles further down; and Denson, at the river's mouth.

Arboton has pure drinking water and a clean, clear swimming hole at the up-river end of town. An up-and-coming industrial community, Arboton could well afford to install a plant to treat and purify its sewage. But that would increase the tax rate, so Arboton residents turn thumbs down on that "unnecessary" expenditure.

Benville, Crownsburg and Denson say they'll be hanged if they'll lay out money to purify a stream which is already polluted. Before long an industry locates on the waterfront at Arboton. The plant adds to the pollution of the river as an incident to its function of producing useful goods and employing many hands.

This is a made to order red herring to obscure the community's responsibility for keeping the river clean. Thereafter industrial waste is blamed for whatever occurs—fish-killing in the water, outbreaks of dysentery from drinking it, and so on.

FORTUNATELY for a clear understanding of the river pollution problem, it is easy to divide the responsibility between municipal sewage and industrial wastes. Roughly allocated, it is:

Municipal sewage—90 percent.

Industrial wastes—10 percent.

If industrial wastes were completely eliminated, the waters of the rivers in heavily populated manufacturing areas would still be 90 percent as impure. Obviously, industry can't solve the problem alone.

For many years now, industry has invested a great deal of thought and money with two objectives in mind. One is to lighten the pollution load. The other is preparation to make a 100 percent contribution to stream purity when and if a comprehensive abatement program includes the 90 percent factor of municipal sewage.

The food and beverage people—unavoidably the largest producers of organic waste—the leather tanning industry, the paper and pulp industry and many others, are constantly working on improved waste treatment processes.

The steel industry has never been a dominant factor in stream pollution. Steel plant wastes include blast furnace flue dust, still-wastes of by-product coke ovens, oil scum and pickle liquor. The first three have caused little annoyance and are easily controlled. Pickle liquor has been the principal stream pollutant.

Steel sheets, bought in tremendous quantities by the automobile industry, must have smooth surfaces. So do tin plate, strip wire and galvanized pipe. A vital operation in producing these products is removal of the rough oxide scale from their surfaces. The most effective method of accomplishing this operation is to treat the steel products with acid, usually sulfuric.

What's left after steel's acid bath is a watery solution of free acid and metal salt. This exhausted residue, which has lost most of its strength, is called "spent pickle liquor." Right now, the annual production of pickle liquor totals about 600,000,000 gallons.

Research has shown that it can be made, through various processes, into paint pigment, building material, iron salt valuable in sewage treatment plants, or a substitute for gypsum in making cement. Few of these have been used commercially.

The American Iron and Steel Institute established a fellowship at Mellon Institute, in 1938, to launch the first concerted attack on the problems of waste pickle liquor. The fellowship has weighed at least 140 suggested ways to solve the puzzle.

At a profit or at a loss, the steel industry wants to abate its small share of responsibility in the pollution of America's rivers. By various expedients—some of them adding as much as 35 cents a ton to the cost of steel production—the industry has taken itself pretty well out of the stream pollution picture. Its main problem now is to make this contribution less costly.

Community leaders on local, state and national levels have come to realize their responsibility for cleaning up our rivers. Among the first post-war bills introduced in Congress were three dealing with water pollution.

Science can now suggest ways to provide not only a safe and plentiful supply of water, but a water of proper chemical make-up for maximum healthfulness. Fluorination, for example, has been tried to reduce tooth decay through treatment of the water we drink.

PUBLIC support is essential, if programs for cleaning up the nation's rivers are to succeed. The initial cost will be high, but it will be more than offset by the savings in health, fish life, and improved recreation centers. To correct the major sources of pollution in the United States would require treatment plants costing two-and-one-quarter billion dollars—half municipal and half industrial. Thereafter the annual operating and financing cost would be about $116,000,000 over a 30-year period.

This program would not take into consideration the vast quantity of silt and sludge accumulated through the years on some streambeds. These wastes interfere with the normal growth of aquatic plants and make the normal haunts of fish unfamiliar and unattractive.

Moreover, the disappearance of trees from the riverbanks and valley slopes have changed the water temperatures and have altered the character of river bottoms through erosion. These factors do not always occur to sportsmen who blame "that factory up the line" for spoiling their fishing grounds.

With your help, real improvement in our rivers is possible. Even in heavily populated areas, the now misused American rivers can look better, smell better, provide better bathing, boating and fishing, and yield cleaner, clearer, and more healthful household water.

HEALTH-GIVING—Take a big drink, little girl. Water is good for you. It's especially good if modern science has contributed its new-found knowledge of ways to give our water supply the proper chemical make-up for maximum healthfulness.

SWIMMING-HOLE?—A far cry from the pure, clear swimming hole of song and story is this river, polluted by wastes of a heavily-populated city. Many rivers which flow past our major centers of population are no longer safe for bathing.

A WHOPPER—There's nothing quite like the thrill of snagging a big one. Fishermen who blame industrial waste for stream pollution must look to municipal sewage treatment as a means of saving their sport. Pollution takes a heavy toll of fish life.

CRYSTAL CLEAR—Aerial views tell a graphic story of problems in pollution control. Near its source, the stream is so clear and transparent that details of the river bed can be seen. The river purifies the wastes it carries by natural processes.

HARNESSED—The river gains utility when a diversion dam is built to provide waters for a power plant downstream. Plentiful and inexpensive hydro-electric power is the forerunner to establishment of industries and towns along the banks of the river.

TOWNS GROW—To house employees of the new factories, new communities spring up. Stream pollution may become a major problem, unless municipal sewage and industrial wastes are treated. Growing populations increase pollution dangers.

TWO-STATE PROBLEM—Here the river crosses the boundary lines of two states. State commissions must get together to solve new problems of water control. They must agree on cooperative action to protect water supply.

BEAUTY—Twice as high as Niagara Falls is this mighty waterfall. Tons of flashing water plunge over spillway at Grand Coulee Dam, on the Columbia River.

WEBS—Giant steel webs form the framework of the Freda Siphon, through which water rushes to the Metropolitan Water District, serving Southern California cities.

FOUNTAINS—At Kensico, sprays of water shot into the air add oxygen, remove unwanted gases, and break down matters causing tastes and odors.

Lansing, July 15. (P)—The state stream control commission today ordered notice served on the city of Grand Rapids, Wyoming township and the American Boxboard company in Grand Rapids that steps should be taken to control stream pollution.

The official notices call for a report in 15 days with a threat of court action liable if no action is taken.

A commitment by Iron River in the Upper Peninsula offering to care for its sewage disposal problems by 1952 providing the commission did something about iron mine waste was rejected. The commission held disposal of sewage from Iron River and control of iron mine waste were two entirely different problems.

The commission served notice on the towns of Manistique and Negaunee that they must show cause why a suit should not be instituted forcing them to abate pollution. The cities must report before a stream control commission hearing in Escanaba August 21.

A similar notice was served on Houghton and Hancock with the same August 21 deadline. The commission said all four cities had not acted when given an opportunity to make plans for pollution collection and treatment.

The Ontonagon Cooperative Creamery at Bruce's Creek in Ontonagon county was served notice to show cause why it should not stop dumping residue into Clear creek.

School Election

Election of school board members assumed larger proportions this year because of a death, and resignations within the group. Consequently it was necessary to ballot for four positions. For the office of trustee for three years four persons offered their services for two openings and polled votes as follows:

George Boudreau (incumbent) 76; Ulysses Maynard (incumbent appointed) 47; Robert Tatrow, 70; and Alfred LaVallee, 154. The law calls for 25 signatures for a petition to run for school board while only 20 is required for state offices, and Mr. LaVallee acquired only 21. His name appeared on the ballot nevertheless, but he had taken the precaution to obtain slips and did his utmost to see that these were applied regardless. Results showed that he was wanted by a large majority, as well as needed, and the number would have been larger by a dozen or so had not some voters failed to place the cross in the square provided for it.

For one trustee for two years three names were presented and resulted in choice of Harold Goff of Kate's Bay with 85 votes, Stanley Jacques and Howard Pelletier polling 35 and 82 respectively.

For one trustee for one year there were no opposition and resulted in choice of Harold Goff of Kate's Bay with 85 votes, Stanley Jacques and Howard Pelletier polling 35 and 82 respectively.

Also presented to voters at this time was a ballot to determine the will of the majority concerning certain properties now evacuated. The sale was requested by 175 as against 23, not in favor.

Begin Treating
Indian Lake For
Swimmer's Itch

Due to a number of cases of swimmer's itch reported by people who have bathed at some of the beaches at Indian Lake, the waters are undergoing treatment in the vicinity of Indian Lake State Park.

This treatment, which is being done by the state department of conservation, is deadly to the small snails which are held responsible for the trouble, but has little or no effect upon humans although it is deemed best to refrain from bathing for a day or so in the areas treated.

The daily swim sessions sponsored by the Manistique board of recreation will continue until the beach is being treated. Bathing is informed that a shower and a good towel after the swim will do away with any danger of itch infection. In case the children wish to go out to the park but do not care to swim, they are welcome to accompany the bathers on their daily trips. Thor Reque, recreational director states.

Notice will be given when the beach at the park is to be worked on.

The score was tied at five-all in the seventh inning with Paquin pitching airtight ball from the seventh on, having 24 strikeouts to his credit for the game. E. Lasey was also in splendid form for Germfask but weakened just enough in the sixteenth to turn the tide.

A supply of bicycle license plates, ample enough to supply the needs of the city for the rest of the season, has arrived at the city hall and everyone using a bicycle are notified to call and apply for their license.

When the season opened, a supply deemed adequate, was ordered, but the number of bike owners was badly underestimated and an extra order had to be applied for. In the meantime, the police had to let up on the order that every bicycle operated in the city had to have a license plate. Now, however, the order is again in force.

Tough Graziano Takes Middleweight Title From Zale In Sixth

BOUT HAS FANS ON THEIR EARS

Manhattan Kid Absorbs Punishment, Floors Foe For TKO

By SID FEDER
Chicago Stadium, July 16 (AP)—Rock-a-Bye Rocky Graziano, the tough kid off lower Manhattan's street corners—the kid they said wasn't game enough to take the kind of punishment Tony Zale handed out—won the World middleweight championship tonight by doing just that.

In a fierce flailing exhibition of blood-and-thunder brawling that had the crowd of 18,547 more than half hysterical most of the way, the Rock-a-Bye Kid came on to stop magnificent Tony Zale in the sixth round in this sweltering arena after absorbing all of Zale's Sunday shots himself, and still asking for more through the first four heats. He'd been floored once himself—in the third—and his left eye had been gashed open and his right all but shut up as tight as a sealed envelope through the third and fourth.

Bombs Hit Target

Then he started to come. He found the range and his terrific time-bombs were right on the target as Tony weakened notably. Through the last part of the fifth he staggered Zale with murderous blows from both hands that drew loud "Oooohs" from the steaming spectators. Though the early part of the sixth he took complete charge and all but tore Tony apart.

He drove him from rope to rope, from corner to corner, as Zale, as game as they ever come, tried to fight back, just as he did a year ago in their sensational pier-sis brawl that produced this return bout as a "natural."

Rocky wouldn't let him make it, however, finally, after absorbing even more than any normal body could stand, Tony had to fall. He collapsed over the center rope, half in and half out of the ring.

Rocky started for a neutral corner, just as both had been instructed to this morning by State Athletic Commission Chairman Sheldon Clark who had warned Graziano, for some reason, that "a clean fight is most important to you, Rocky, because this commission is a member of the National Boxing Association and any suspension we hand out stands all over the United States." By the time the count reached three Tony was already on the way to his feet, badly hurt, but still ready to go until he couldn't go any more.

But Referee Johnny Behr, coach of the American Olympic team in 1936, wouldn't let him. He stepped in and stopped it at 2:10 of the sixth. He may have been right and he may have been wrong to write it off the first time Tony was on the deck, because the ex-steel mill hand from Gary, Indiana, had come off the floor in the rip-snorter a year ago to make it—had, in fact, come back from the very edge of dreamland to score his spectacular knock-out. But Behr had the full say in there—and Behr said no. And there was no hiding the fact that Tony was hurt, and hurt badly.

GATE RECORD BROKEN

It was a sudden, flash finish to a fight that was billed as the fight of the year and lived up to its billing like a government bond.

Ever since they'd fought a year ago, and had the customers practically standing on their ears, this one was going to be "it." And it was.

The customers knew that these two specialists in caving the roof in weren't going to fool with any 15-rounds-to-decision pantywaist stuff. Neither is built that way.

So the customers responded with cash on the barrel head. They made the cash registers tingle to such a merry tune that they not only wrote a new all-time indoor fight gate record of $415,126.56 into the books but actually more than doubled the old mark of $201,485 chalked up by Jim Maloney and Jack Delaney back in 1927 in Madison Square Garden, New York.

Thus, they gave Chicago both the indoor and the outdoor fight record days, for there still is nothing in the books even close to the $2,658,660 that Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney lured into Soldier Field in 1927. And both the Manassas mauler and the Shakespearian student were among those at the ringside tonight. So were a whole lot more name folks who came to see the re-run of last year's brawl and made this the kind of extravaganza usually built up only for heavyweight title tussles.

And from the opening bell, those who saw the New York hair-raiser last year were telling themselves "this is where we came in," because that's exactly the kind of fight it was.

Detroit Matron Faces Mary Agnes Wall In Michigan Semi-Finals

By BURDETTE B. ASHLEY
Grand Rapids, Mich., July 16 (AP)—Mrs. Eddie Bush, whose husband taught her the game less than three years ago, today found herself matched against one of Michigan's top feminine players in Thursday's semi-finals of the State Women's golf tournament.

The blonde and serious Detroit woman pulled the second upset in as many days at Blythe Field Country Club and won her way into a semi-final tussle with Mary Agnes Wall, the seasoned Menominee campaigner.

The other two semi-finalists will be Sally Sessions, the 1946 title holder from Muskegon, and Shirley Spork, the red-haired 1947 Women's Intercollegiate champion.

ROOKIE SPARKS GIANT TRIUMPH

Cubs Blanked Until 9th Inning, Lose Decision By 6-3 Count

New York, July 16 (AP)—Bob Thomson, rookie outfield star of the New York Giants, drove in four runs on a homer and double today to spark the Giants to a 6-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Thomson parked his four-bagger deep into the leftfield seats with one on in the fourth inning and then highlighted a four run eighth inning rally by smashing a bases loaded double.

The Cubs, who were blanked by Dave Kosslo last night, were held scoreless by Monty Kennedy until the ninth when they erupted and scored all of their runs, driving Kennedy from the hill.

Ken Trinkle relieved Kennedy with three runs in, one on and two out put after Ed Waitkus singled, and Phil Cavarretta walked, Trinkle gave way to Joe Bergs who induced pinch-hitter Stan Hack to ground out and end the game.

Hank Borowy started for the Cubs and was relieved in the eighth after Thomson unloaded his two-run double. Bob Chipman took over for Borowy and Home Run King Johnny Mize greeted the southpaw with a single driving home Bill Rigney and Thomson with the Giants' final two runs.

Escanaba Golf Club To Fete Patty Berg, Mary Agnes Wall

Following the golfing exhibition of Miss Patty Berg and Miss Mary Agnes Wall, noted golfers, the Escanaba Golf Club will be host to a 6:30 buffet supper in their honor, Monday evening.

Committee in charge, chairmaned by Mrs. Joseph Poffenberger, will consist of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Venne, Dr. and Mrs. Nathan Frenn, Miss Ann Kroll and Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Harvey.

The regular Saturday evening dance will be cancelled for this week.

Communities throughout the United States have 11,847 public tennis courts.

"I'll give it a go," Mrs. Bush promised of her match with Miss Wall as she rested after an uphill victory over Mrs. Sam Byrd, whose husband also is a Detroit pro.

Mrs. Byrd was two up at the end of nine holes and worked the lead to three on the 10th green. Then Mrs. Bush coolly took over, just as she did Tuesday when she won her opening round after being two down on the 15th.

She won the 11th, 12th and 14th holes to even the match and went one up on the tricky 16th when Mrs. Byrd encountered trouble in the rough. The two halved the final holes.

While Mrs. Bush's victory was the most spectacular of the day, Miss Wall served the sternest warning to her competitors with a par score for 14 holes during which she whipped 21-year-old Barbara Canine of Kalamazoo, 6-4.

The quiet, slender Menominee girl, twice runnerup but never winner of the state tournament, led off with a birdie but went one over par on the seventh. From that point on she never deviated from par.

Miss Spork fashioned the most lopsided victory in eliminating Mrs. Virginia Cunningham, the Grand Rapids blonde who scored a surprise victory Tuesday, 8-7. The young Ypsilanti star shot a par 38 for nine holes and ended the match on the 11th green one over par.

Miss sessions shot the day's best round, a one under par 37, in defeating Margaret Russell of Detroit, 4-3. They ended on the 15th hole with last year's champion one over par for the route.

Paper Mill Crews Battle Sunday On Manistique Course

Manistique — The Indian Lake golf course has been chosen for the semi-annual match of the office and Paper Mill employees of Escanaba Paper Company and the Manistique Pulp & Paper company. This is not a match between the two mills but between the "pen pushers" and paper makers, and due to the existing rivalry between the two groups Manistique was chosen as a neutral battle ground.

Twenty-four golfers from Escanaba will make the journey Sunday and will be joined by eight "turf destroyers" from the local mill. It is hoped that sufficient caddies will be on hand to care for the visitors and all caddies are asked to bring their pals along with them. The match will get underway at one o'clock sharp.

Tom Farris Signed As Understudy To Luckman Of Bears

Chicago, July 16 (AP)—Tom Farris, former University of Wisconsin star, has signed to understudy Sid Luckman again as quarterback of the Champion Chicago Bears of the National Football League.

Farris made his professional debut last year as the Bears' No. 2 signal-caller and is heir apparent to the job of running the team's complicated T-attack when Luckman, 30, elects to retire.

Farris is the 21st member of last year's title-winning team to sign a 1947 contract. The Bears will report for training at Collegeville, Ind., on Aug. 31.

Michigan State had an undefeated boxing team in 1947.

Cards Shut Out By Braves, 3 to 0

Boston, July 16 (AP)—Lefty Warren Spahn tonight pitched his 13th victory and his fourth shut-out of the season as the Boston Braves defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 3-0 before a paid attendance of 28,651, which made the Boston home attendance 700,410 for 45 games on 38 dates.

The first Boston run was scored in the opening inning by Tommy Holmes, who was safe when Marty (Slats) Marion fozzled the Boston outfielder's grounder.

The game ended on a great play by Shortstop Nanny Fernandez, who went far to his left to snare a Ducky Medwick grounder and then flip the ball while falling on his face to Second Sacker Connie Ryan for a forcout.

Irish Champion No Match For Marino

Glasgow, July 16 (AP)—The manager of Dado Marino, Honolulu flyweight, announced today after World Champion Jackie Paterson of Scotland withdrew from his scheduled title fight with Marino that he would claim the crown for the Hawaiian.

Paterson collapsed early today after vigorous training trying to make the 112-pound weight, and Marino was matched with Rinty Monaghan of Belfast, Irish champion, for a non-title substitute match. Marino won on a disqualification.

Monaghan proved no match for Marino and finally was disqualified for holding in the ninth round after the referee had warned him several times. Marino went down for a count of two in the first round when Monaghan caught him with a right, but after that Marino had things all his own way. He put Monaghan down for an eight count in the seventh.

Monaghan weighed 116 pounds, 15 ounces to Marino's 109 pounds, 14 ounces.

TIGERS DIVIDE WITH SENATORS

Four-Run Eighth Saves First Game, 9 To 8; Nightcap Lost 10-1

Detroit, July 14 (AP)—The Washington Senators jumped on Hal Newhouse today for five runs in the first two innings, but the Detroit Tigers came back to save the game 9 to 8 with a four-run eighth inning rally that enabled them to split a doubleheader. Washington took the nightcap 10 to 1 back of Marino Pieretti's five-hit pitching.

Detroit's four-run spurge in the opener came at the expense of relief pitcher Tom Ferrick, who relieved Walt Masterson with the Nats leading 7-5 and tossed away the margin when four of the six men who faced him hit safely. Johnny Gorsica, who hurled one inning for Detroit, was the winner.

The Senators got 14 hits off four Detroit pitchers while losing that one but came back with 16 blows in the nightcap to breeze in back of Pieretti's effective twirling.

Stan Spence led Washington's 30-hit assault in the two games with six hits while Buddy Lewis and Tom McBride each collected five.

Lewis and Mark Christman connected for a homer each during the afternoon, but Dick Wakefield of the Tigers was the batting star of the day, driving in five runs in the first game with his fifth home run, a double and a single.

Errors Aid Swats
Washington used two Tiger errors and plenty of healthy swatting to pile up its 5-0 lead off Newhouse in the first game but Detroit kept pecking away at the lead and it was 7-5 going into the eighth.

When Doc Cramer walked to open the inning Ferrick was called in to replace Masterson. Eddie Mave singled to right and Bob Swift advanced both runners with a sacrifice. Freddie Hutchinson, swinging as a pinch-hitter, popped up for the second out but Lake, Cullenbine and Wakefield then singled in succession for three runs and Cullenbine and Wakefield worked a double steal for the other.

Hutchinson, who then went to the mound, pitched his way out of bad trouble in the ninth after the Senators had loaded the bases with nobody out.

Lewis' homer after Eddie Yost had singled gave the Nats a 2-0 lead before Stubby Overmire got a man out in the first inning of the nightcap and two walks, two singles and Spence's double made it 4-0 in the third.

Five hits off Hal White, who pitched the third inning, scored three more runs and the Senators coasted in.

The softball boys in various parts of the peninsula are not at all happy about Negaunee's plans to move the U. P. finals tournament up a week in order to avoid conflict with the U. P. all star game there on August 16. The matter will certainly will be up for further discussion at the softball association meeting in Negaunee Sunday and new efforts will be made to shift the U. P. tournament back a week or later.

Softball men report that there is a natural lag in public and player enthusiasm following the peninsula tournament and that consequently, the tournament should be as close to the end of the season as possible. This makes sense, of course, which gives adequate cause for dissatisfaction over the movement to shove the tournament dates ahead a full week.

Two outstanding travelling baseball attractions have been booked by the Escanaba Bears and in each case the Bears can give thanks to the Kingsford Cardinals of the NWM league.

The two travelling teams are the Zulu Canibal Giants of Louisville and the Havana LaPalomas of the Cuban league. The Zulu Giants will be here Thursday, July 24, and the Cubans will play here Tuesday, Aug. 5. The Kingsford team agreed to shift its dates with the barnstormers in order to make room for the Escanaba appearances. Both games will be twilight games which should highlight the baseball schedule in Escanaba for the summer.

George Grenholm, city recreation director, conducted city fathers on a tour of playground and recreational facilities in Escanaba yesterday to acquaint the officials with the recreational program here, its progress and its needs.

Michigan State college will dedicate the first postwar football stadium. The new structure, slated to be ready for the 1948 season, will seat upwards of 50,000 and will be another argument upon behalf of MSC's bid for admittance to the Western Conference.

Guys who are a little cocky about their marksmanship with a pistol will certainly want to see Cpl. Lester Coykendall of the Michigan State Police in action at the U. P. State Fair Aug. 19-24. Cpl. Coykendall, now at Rockford in the Lower Peninsula, is a wizard with guns. He will give a series of demonstrations at the fair and among other amazing tricks, he will slice in half a playing card placed edgewise, shooting at 30 feet.

SEAWAY HOPES REVIVED AGAIN

Canadians In Favor Of Plan, But Congress Is Holding Back

Ottawa (AP)—Canada, mindful that much of its economy is tributary to the St. Lawrence-Great Lakes system, is hoping that congressional discussions of the old plan to open the Middle West to big ocean going ships and generate power on the side mean the project finally is going to get somewhere.

But Canada's hopes are tempered with pessimism. Although most Canadians feel that the St. Lawrence seaway and power plan would stimulate their country's growth and industrial development they are well aware the project doesn't enjoy the same clear-cut majority of favorable opinion in the United States.

Canadians are not at all convinced that the bill now before congress to permit joint development of the seaway will meet any better fate than the United States-Canadian St. Lawrence development treaty which was signed just 15 years ago July 18—and never ratified.

For 250 Years

The idea of a deep-water route from the Atlantic to the ports of the Great Lakes goes much farther back than 1932. As early as 1700, fur traders, tired of back-breaking, time-consuming portages, built an 18 inch (CQ) canal around the Lachine Rapids just above Montreal. In 1882 the Canadian government undertook a 14-foot canal to bypass the rapids of the upper St. Lawrence which was completed in 1901.

Actually, the first serious move toward joint action by Canada and the United States to develop the St. Lawrence-Great Lakes seaway was taken in 1905 with creation of a joint standing International Waterways Commission. The question of a deep waterway in the upper reaches of the St. Lawrence was broached between the two governments in 1914 but was abandoned due to world war 1.

Throughout the 20's, International Commissions studied the engineering and economic problems of the proposed deep-sea waterway and a treaty finally was signed in 1932. Up to that time Canada and the United States had spent large sums on dredging and on shallow canal works. It seemed obvious that expenditures should be coordinated and more carefully planned.

As envisaged, the seaways project would make the St. Lawrence river and the Great Lakes fully navigable by big ships from its mouth or the Atlantic Ocean to Duluth, Minn., 2,350 miles inland at the head of Lake Superior. In addition, the project would harness the tremendous waterpower of the St. Lawrence to generate electricity.

Opponents argued the development would be uneconomical and menace both railroads and established harbors and waterways. The treaty failed to get the two-thirds senate majority required for ratification.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt revived the project as a measure important to war industry in 1941 and in March that year Canada and the United States signed an agreement paralleling the 1932 treaty but drawn in such form it would require only a majority approval. Opponents reinforced their old arguments with the contention that the seaway project would take too long in completion to be considered a war expenditure and, further, that it would divert important labor and material from the war industry. The bill was shelved for the duration.

Share in Cost

Revived again, it once more has the blessing of the president. When President Harry S. Truman visited Ottawa early in June he spoke of cooperation between Canada and the United States and mentioned that they had mutual assets still to be developed. Then he referred to "The magnificent St. Lawrence-Great Lakes system" and described the deep waterway proposal as "economically sound and strategically important."

Canada on its own built the Welland Ship Canal, a 25-foot deep channel which permits ships to scale the Niagara escarpment of 323 feet and pass between Lake Erie and Lake Ontario.

Canada, noting the latest cost estimate made by U. S. army engineers in June, of $674,707,000 for the project inclusive of the Welland canal, figures its share of completing the seaway system at about $183,098,000. This represents half the estimated total cost less what the Dominion spent on the Welland canal.

Schaffer

Miss Rose Potvin of Schaffer will visit her sister, Marie Potvin, in Chicago for a few days.

Mrs. Henry Auger and daughter have returned to their home in Muskegon after visiting Mr. and Mrs. Victor Auger of Schaffer for two weeks.
